It is impossible to give a just and fair amount of credit to contributors to Volume II of Genealogical History of Our Ancestors, 1977, but to make a concise listing of names of contributors on an equal footing would be remiss. Those who contributed information were aware of the compilers past publications and interest in future publications, and were interested in supplying information to be included. The compilers received a great quantity of information on the female lines which has not been included in this volume as limited space prohibited carrying female lines forward.

Mention should be made in a personal way to several contributors to express thanks and appreciation for information which they supplied. Brother Thomas William Spalding, C.F.X. —Tom Spalding of Louisville, Kentucky, a multiple cousin of varying degrees to one of the compilers, is a descendant of the families of Spalding, Gardiner, Greene, Boarman, Boone, Edelen, Page, and Craycroft, and his help and interest in these families has been of major proportions. He supplied the manuscript "The Spalding Family of Maryland and Kentucky" by the late Dr. Joseph E. Johnson of Louisville; his own manuscript on the Boone family tracing some of the descendants of John Boone of Calvert County; the identification of a number of Kentucky Spaldings who were included but unidentified in The Spalding Memorial; and information on the allied families mentioned above.

James Robert Brown of Minneapolis, Minnesota, has been a correspondent since 9 September 1966 at which time he wrote that he was a third cousin once removed. Our correspondence these past eleven years has not only been pleasant but profitable to each of us on the families of Peyton, Elledge, and Roach. His manuscript "A Brief Outline of Some of the Descendants of Ashcraft and Mary Magdaline Roach" and his letters have been excellent sources of information for this volume. He also made available the manuscripts "Descendants of Yelverton Peyton and Anna Guffey" by Leota (Payton) Large, and "Roach Family" by Mary R. Holland.

George S. May of Fair Oaks, California, and Grover Payton of Kirksville, Missouri, are interested in the same Peyton line. Grover Payton supplied George S. May with a paper written by Lewis Allen Payton in 1939. George brought the information up-to-date in a short manuscript entitled "Revised Summary of Information on Descendants of Charles Lewis Van Cover Payton of Adair County, Missouri."

The recently published book, The Peytons of Virginia, was available to the compilers which basically represented the work of Bernard P. Chamberlain of Charlottesville, Virginia; John W. Moore of Akron, Ohio; Mrs. James A.

Weaver of Culpeper County, Virginia; and Frank West Read of Sterling, Virginia.

Crolian William Edelen of Elizabeth, New Jersey, is not only an Edelen descendant, but is also of Spalding descent. His many original birth and death records from Kentucky cemeteries, his church records, and marriage records would in themselves make a valuable small volume of original records accounting for many families. His contributions toward the Edelen family section are many and are appreciated.

The Hayden family section, one of the major sections of this volume, has been enhanced by the contributions of a number of persons. The compilers were fortunate to have access to the original copies of The Hayden Family Magazine at the Kansas State Historical Society Library in Topeka, and to the book, The Hayden Family, which was basically a transcription of the charts published in The Hayden Family Magazine. Mrs. Mildred Wonn of Owingsville, Kentucky, and the late Mrs. Elsie Carnes Davis of New Smyrna Beach, Florida, shared the findings of their years of Hayden research. Miss Charlotte Groff and Hazel Eidson, M.D., both of Berrien Springs, Michigan, were successful recently in their long search for the name of the first wife of Dr. Enoch Hayden. Others making contributions included Mrs. Minnie M. Bates of Macomb, Illinois; Robert S. Hayden of Saratoga Springs, New York; Dr. Euna Mignault of Beverly, Massachusetts; Mrs. Guyula M. Taylor of Indianapolis, Indiana; and James K. Young, Jr., of Springfield, Illinois.

The McKinney family was greatly expanded by the work of Mrs. A. S. Trube of Austin, Texas, entitled "Genealogical Material Concerning Collin McKinney," the descendants of Daniel McKinney and Mercy Blatchley McKinney, and "Data on Blatchley, Dodd and McKinney" by Margaret Curtis Boyce, all of which was sent by Mrs. Elizabeth Varner of Texarkana, Texas. Mrs. Burch Hammer of Blanchester, Ohio, sent copies of letters written by Mrs. Otto Kratovil of Red Bank, New Jersey, and Mrs. Blanche Beal Lowe of Stanton, California, as well as abstracts from original records, and pages from the "Heber G. Gearhart Collection" from the Genealogical Society of Pennsylvania. Mrs. Patricia Kirkwood of Torrance, California, was also a contributor of McKinney information.

Persons making contributions to the Halliburton and Rutherford families have previously been recognized in the genealogies entitled Genealogical History of the Halliburton Family printed in 1959 and revised in 1972, and Genealogical History of the Rutherford Family published in 1969.

Since retiring in 1973, the compilers have devoted the major part of their time to the production of this two volume revision of Genealogical History of Our Ancestors, originally published in 1970.

The list of other persons who have contributed information to the compilers continues:

Preface

Genealogical History of Our Ancestors, Volume II, 1977, is a compilation of forty-two collateral families based on Volume I to aid researchers who have common ancestors with the compilers. It is also designed as an aid to the search for allied families, and the maiden names of many wives have been included following their husband's names, and all wives are indexed under their maiden names and their married names.

Whenever possible, the first generation begins with the immigrant ancestor. Any predecessors of an immigrant ancestor, if known to the compilers, has been confined to Volume I and only the ascending line in parenthesis is included in Volume II. Wherever there is a duplication of a family in Volume II, the sketch has been limited and more complete information has been included in Volume I. Any ver batium records on an individual, or a family, has been confined to Volume I.

Generations of John Alden

GENEALOGICAL HISTORY OF OUR ANCESTORS

Many Alden descendants in the United States have a common progenitor – John Alden. His descendants are eligible for membership in The General Society of Mayflower Descendants, and Alden Kindred of America, Inc. Springing from the children of John Alden and his wife, Priscilla Mullins, we find a diverse and widely scattered group of descendants throughout the United States and Canada.

John Alden is most widely known as the romantic of the group of austere Pilgrims who came ashore at Plymouth Rock in 1620. As cooper aboard the Mayflower he was largely responsible for the health of its passengers as the casks of food and drink were under his supervision. He was the youngest of the signers of the Mayflower Compact, but again not the least responsible.

He was a hard working farmer in addition to being a barrel maker. With the division of the common property of the colony he evinced his fearlessness by the establishment of his farm in Duxbury, 30 minutes by car today from the safety of the fort at Plymouth. His homestead in Duxbury, now a shrine in his memory, passed to his son, Jonathan, and remained in that branch of the family for nine successive generations. The present house, built by Jonathan in 1653 and in which John Alden died, is thought to have been built around two older rooms which may have been the John Alden house moved to the present site from a nearby location. The house was acquired by Alden Kindred of America, Inc., in 1908. The compilers, like so many others, have visited where this ancestor lived – the only existing house in which a Mayflower passenger once lived.

John Alden's sons, John, Joseph, and David, moved elsewhere. The vital records of Duxbury and the neighboring towns of Bridgewater, East Bridgewater, Boston, and many others, have been published, and contain many of the marriages, christenings, and deaths of the descendants of John Alden. Among his notable descendants were two Presidents of the United States – John Adams and his son John Quincy Adams; and the poet – Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. It was Longfellow who romanticized John Alden in the poem "The Courtship of Miles Standish," yet the Records of the Colony of New Plymouth in New England reveal that Alden was one of the most stable of the Pilgrims.

Generations
Deacon Samuel Bass

The parish register of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin in Saffron Walden, England, is extant. It contains the marriage record of Samuel Bass to Anne Savil, 25 April 1625, and the baptismal records of two sons – "Samuel, son of Samuel Bass, 11 May 1626," and "John, son of Samuel Bass, 18 September 1630."

A Bass family was living in the parish in 1596 for in that year Thomas, son of Thomas Bass, was baptized. However, as there is no record of the baptism of Samuel Bass one can only assume that he was of a different branch of the family, but probably related as he was living in the parish in 1625.

The Savil family baptisms date from 1593, and the baptism of Anne, daughter of William Savil, 26 April 1601, establishes the William Savil family in the parish at this early date. The baptismal dates of other children of William Savil are also included in the register, although no record was found of his son William.

William Savil appeared in the records of Cambridge, Massachusetts, in 1641 and he settled in Braintree, Massachusetts, the following year. In his will dated 19 February 1668 [1669] he named "my brother Samuel Bass" one of the executors of his will thus linking himself as a brother of Samuel Bass' wife, Anne Savil.

The son of Samuel Bass and Anne Savil, John Bass, married Ruth Alden. Among their noted descendants were two Presidents, John Adams and John Quincy Adams. See p. 592.

Maj. William Boarman

The Boarman family, a colonial family of Maryland, left its imprint upon the social fabric of early America. It is thought that Maj. William Boarman was related in some way to the Calvert family. From the Lord Proprietary, Boarman received land patents embracing some 17,000 acres of land located in Charles County and St. Mary's County, Maryland. Boarman's Manor and Boarman's Gift were two of the large estates which were identified with the Boarman family through wills and deeds of gift for more than a century. Charles Calvert and his retinue were guests of Maj. William Boarman in 1661 until Calvert found suitable living quarters for himself.

Through marriages in the colonial period the Boarmans aligned themselves with other well-known Maryland families. The spouses of Boarmans were chosen from such families as Greene, Gardiner, Edelen, Craycroft, Matthews, Jarboe, Neale, Brooke, Hagan, Sewell, Pile, Semmes, Harding, Jenkins, Plowden, Queen, Bowling, Dyer, Thompson, Underwood and many other well known families of Charles and St. Mary's counties.

A list of members of the Boarman family who participated in the Revolutionary War was printed in the Baltimore Sun, 23 September 1906, Baltimore, Maryland. Those cited were 1st Lt. Richard Bennett Boarman; Ens. Raphael Boarman, Jr.; 1st Lt. Henry Boarman of the 3rd Maryland Battalion of the Flying Camp; and Adm. Charles Boarman of the Navy.

A number of the women consecrated their lives to religious service, and those men who became Catholic priests included the Rev. Sylvester Boarman; the Rev. John Boarman; and the Rev. Marshall Boarman. Charles Boarman was a member of the faculty of Georgetown College in the District of Columbia from 1797 to 1819.

Many of the Boarmans, like other colonial families, died testate. A study of extant wills and conveyances of land traces the family as it appears on the following pages.

Generations of John Boone

The Boone family of Taunton, County Somerset, England, in all probability was the progenitor family of the Boones of Calvert County, Maryland. The family has been pieced together through a series of wills which are inter-related, extant parish records, and court proceedings.

A John Boone was listed in the court rolls of County Somerset, England, in 1591, as a land holder in the Hundred of Holleway. In 1612 he was mentioned in the Chancery Proceedings, and was listed as a churchwarden of St. Mary's at Taunton the same year. John Boone and his wife, Alice Wheeler, had three known sons: Robert, Christopher, and Richard Boone. The three brothers were proved in the following manner. Richard Boone was baptized 19 May 1589 at St. Mary's. His name, the date of his baptism and the names of his parents were recorded in the Taunton Parish Register in Taunton, England. In the County Somerset Chancery Proceedings dated 27 June 1614, Richard Boone was named as a brother of Christopher Boone. In the baptismal record of Thomas Boone recorded 11 July 1610 at St. Mary's, Robert Boone was named as the father. This Thomas Boone of Mount Boone died testate and in his will, dated 14 March 1678 and proved 25 May 1680, he made a bequest to Daniel Boone, then over the sea, "son of Richard Boone my Unkle, deceased." Thomas Boone of Mount Boone also made bequests to the children of his deceased brother John: "my nephew Thomas Boone... John Boone the sonne of John Boone my brother deceased...if hee returns to England... Mary Backstall and Susan Marsham (the daughters of John Boone my brother deceased" (Wills PCC Bath 71, Public Record Office, London, England).

Robert Boone, son of the aforesaid John Boone, was buried at St. Mary's in Taunton 23 October 1618. He was named as the father of Joane, John, Anne, Agnes, Thomas, and Abigail in their respective baptismal records recorded in the Taunton Parish Register, at Taunton. It was his son, Thomas Boone of Mount Boone who died testate. A sister Judith, was also named in Thomas' will.

John Boone of Greenwich in County Kent, son of Robert Boone, was baptized 3 February 1604 at St. Mary's in Taunton. His estate called Perrecourt lay in Werndon Township near Taunton. In the Chancery Proceedings 2 November 1641 he was mentioned as a London merchant, and he was also cited as a merchant in 1652 and 1655 and the father of Thomas Boone and John Boone when they enrolled in Merchant Taylors' School. He married Mary Handley and died testate. In his will, dated 5 May 1657 and proved 10 November 1658 by his son-in-law, Charles Barksdall, he named four children, Thomas, John, Doll, and Susanna (Wills PCC Wooton 604, Public Record Office). Records indicate that it was his son, John, born 27 December 1645 in All Hallow's Staining Parish in London, who came to Maryland and settled at The Cliffs.

Christopher Boone, son of John Boone of County Somerset, was a wealthy merchant of London. His estates called Rushton and Polmeade lay in the Hundred of Holleway. He married a widow, the daughter of Robert Bsing, whose name was Anne and they were the parents of Christopher Boone of Lee Place.

Christopher Boone of Lee Place was a wealthy merchant and died testate. In his will, dated 18 March 1686 and proved 29 July 1686, he made numerous bequests to the poor. He made a bequest toward the propagation of the Gospel in New England and parts of America. To his wife, Mary Brewer, he bequeathed £10,000 with all his plate, jewels, cabinets, bedding, coaches, horses, and the mansion house at Lee. He left £4,000 for the benefit of Christopher, son of his cousin, Thomas Boone of London. He devised small legacies to three of John Boone's children whom he named as "cousin John Boone now at Florida," Thomas Boone, and Mary, wife of Charles Barksdall (Wills PCC Loyd 158, Public Record Office, London, England). See p. 92.

Generations of Jonas Bowen

The Bowen family of Baltimore County, Maryland, as it appears on the following pages, has been constructed from a study of Baltimore County wills, and is believed to be, by the compilers, the ancestral family of John Bowen who married Jane Eliza Glenn, 25 August 1829 in Baltimore County, Maryland. John Bowen was probably born about 1805.

On the 1790 Heads of Families in Maryland, there were listed in Baltimore County: Benjamin, Jonas, Jr., Joshua, Nathan, Solomon, Sr., Solomon, Jr., and William Bowen. Bowen slave owners and superintendents in Baltimore County in 1798 included Benjamin of Middlesex; Benjamin of Back River Upper; Jehu of Soldiers Delight; John of Patapsco Lower; Joshua of Back River Upper; Josiah of Back River Upper; Nathaniel of Back River Upper; Sarah of Patapsco Lower; Solomon, Sr., of Back River Upper; Solomon, Jr., of Back River Upper; and William of Back River Upper.

The descendants of Moses Bowen and his wife, Rebecca Rees, has been well researched and various portions of the genealogy have been published. Moses Bowen immigrated to Pennsylvanis in 1698 and migrated into Maryland. Rees Bowen died testate in Baltimore County, Maryland in 1769, but most of the family had moved to Augusta County, Virginia, by 1748.

It is therefore assumed by the compilers that the likely progenitor of John Bowen, born about 1805, would be one of the men listed on the 1790 or 1798 tax lists for Baltimore County, or a son of one of the men so listed.

The Gilkerson family was allied to the Bowen family through the marriage of Anna Eliza Gilkerson to Glenn Bowen, 28 January 1866 in Clark County, Missouri. Her brother was born in Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, in 1835. In the obituary of her father, it was stated that he, Capt. John Gilkerson, was born in Virginia. See. p. 806.

Lt. Col. Richard Cocke

Any descendant of Lt. Col. Richard Cocke who wishes to take a step back into history needs only to travel Route 5 southeast of Richmond, Virginia, some fifteen miles to the gateway of Curles Neck Farm. This highly mechanized farm encompasses the land once owned by Lt. Col. Richard Cocke, Col. William Randolph, John Pleasants, and others. Following the farmroad perhaps another two or three miles, one finally arrives at the stone-walled cemetery – "Bremo."

This is the land of Lt. Col. Richard Cocke – a fertile stretch of bottom land lying in the Curle of the James River. To the north across an old Indian trail, now Route 5, is the upland part of the Cocke farm known as Malvern Hills from which one can see the James River and Turkey Island. The brick chimney still stands staunchly marking the site of the house which was probably built by Col. Cocke's son, Thomas. It was here at Bremo and Malvern Hills that the Cocke family lived. See pp. 442, 548.

Generations of John Craycroft

The descendants of Ignatius Craycroft and Sophia Beedle are also descendants of Maj. Richard Ewen of Anne Arundel County, Maryland, twice speaker of the lower house of the General Assembly in 1657 and 1660.

Maj. Richard Ewen and his wife, Sophia, entered Maryland from Virginia in 1649 with their children, Elizabeth, Richard, Jr., John, Susanna, and Ann, in company with a large settlement of Puritans. They settled in Herring Creek Hundred on West River. Their daughter, Sophia Ewen, was born in Maryland, and she married first, Richard Wells, and secondly Henry Beedle. It was the daughter of Henry Beedle and Sophia Ewen, also named Sophia, who married Ignatius Craycroft. See p. vi.

Generations of Laurens Duyts

Generations of Laurens Duyts from 1610 to the 1880's shows clearly the evolution of a name. According to the Dutch custom, the second generation in America was literally "son of Laurens." Hans Laurenszen was a son of Laurens Duyts. In the third generation, the use of the surname began to evolve and the surname of Duyts, taken from the name Duytzen, as was recorded in some of the church records, was used.

Variant spellings of the name include Dey, Deuy, and Dye. All spellings were pronounced the same – Dye. A degree of the Anglicizing of the name Duyts to Dye is shown in the descendants of Laurens Duyts. His grandson, John Laurens Dey, also used the spelling "Dye" which is the preferred spelling used by his descendants to the present day.

Generations of Richard Edelen

Richard Edelen of Pinner Marsh died testate in the Parish of Sturkeley, County Buckingham, England, in August 1616. Besides his wife, Margaret, he mentioned three sons: Philip, Richard, and William; and two daughters, Alice and Hanna. (Deanry of Croydon Wills, Richard Edelen, 1616, Lambeth Palace Library, London, Eng.)

The Rev. Philip Edelen, son of Richard Edelen of Pinner Marsh, married Catherine Offley, a daughter of Thomas Offley and Anne Cletherow, between 1592 and 1594. He was ordained 17 March 1622 as a minister of the Established Church of England, and among those churches which he served were North Cray in County Kent; Alverstoke in County Hampshire; St. Zachary in London, and St. Michael Bassishaw. He suffered persecution at the hands of the Puritans. He died testate 22 March 1657 at Denham, County Buckingham, and was buried in St. Mary's Church with a memorial plaque in his honor inscribed on the south wall. He named Richard Edelen as his youngest son and it was he who immigrated to Maryland.

Richard Edelen, son of Richard Edelen of Pinner Marsh, died testate in 1669. His will dated 6 June 1669, was sealed with the ancient Edelen seal: Ermine, a fess vaire, or and gules. He mentioned his sons: Richard, William, and Philip; his daughters: Margaret Sherwood, Jane Edelen, and Anne Edelen; his son-in-law Joseph Sherwood; a granddaughter, Sarah Edelen; and his Sherwood grandchildren.

William Edelen, son of Richard Edelen of Pinner Marsh, died testate. He was called "William Edelin, the Elder of Marsh in Pinner, Parish of Harrow, Middlesex," and his will was proved 17 June 1639 by his son, John. (PCC Wills, 96 Harvey, Public Record Office, London, Eng.)

Joane Nicholas, mentioned as daughter Hanna in the will of Richard Edelen of Pinner Marsh, wrote her will 27 February 1643, just seven days following the date her husband Richard Nicholas wrote his will. Joane Nicholas of Denham, in the County of Bucks, widow, made her bequest to her children and appointed her "lovinge Brother Mr. Phillipp Edlin and my loving son-in-law John Edlin" as her executors. Phillip Edelen, John Nicholas and James Bockett served as witnesses.

James Bockett was a servant and a cousin of the Rev. Philip Edelen, and William Edelen's son, John, evidently married a daughter of Joane Nicholas.

The Rev. Christopher Edelen, a son of the Rev. Philip Edelen and his wife, Catherine Offley, died testate. He was a minister in the Established Church and was termed a "Clerk in Holy Orders." See p. 174.

Generations of Richard Gardiner

The Gardiner family of Maryland sprang from the Gardiners in England. The Index Register of the University of Oxford lists Gardiners, with variant spellings, who matriculated as follows: Arthur, Bernard, Daniel, Edward, Francis (3), George (4), James (3), John (7), Richard (8), Thomas (5), and William (6), with dates ranging from 1569 through 1705.

The first three generations of Gardiners in the Province of Maryland, Richard, his son Capt. Luke, and his son Richard, enjoyed prominence in the Province. Each was elected to serve as a burgess in the Lower House of the General Assembly. Capt. Luke and his son, Richard, both served as gentlemen justices, and each was a planter with considerable estate.

St. Richard's Manor of 1,000 acres of land was granted to Richard Gardiner and it passed to his son, Capt. Luke Gardiner, who in turn traded St. Richard's Manor for Barberton Manor. The latter estate fell in the third generation to Richard Gardiner. Another identifying tract of land, Sacaweykitt, was granted to Richard Gardiner, and regranted to Capt. Luke Gardiner after his return to Maryland from Virginia in 1647. St. John's, a manor of 1,480 acres of land, was granted to Capt. Luke Gardiner in St. Mary's County, Maryland.

Capt. Luke Gardiner married Elizabeth Hatton, daughter of Richard Hatton of London, England, and his wife, Margaret.

Richard Gardiner married Elizabeth Weire, daughter of Maj. John Weire of old Rappahannock County, Virginia, who served as a burgess in the Virginia House of Burgesses from 1658 through 1661 and again from 1663 through 1677. The members of the Gardiner family also allied themselves through marriages to the families of Boarman, Boone, Brooke, Craycroft, Dyer, Edelen, Elder, Hatton, and others.

Thomas Hatton was sent as secretary of the Province of Maryland from England. In 1648 it was recorded in the Maryland land records that he transported himself, his wife, his sons Robert and Thomas, and two servants. (Liber ABH, f. 123, Hall of Records, Annapolis MD.)

Richard Hatton of London, and brother of Thomas Hatton the secretary, died leaving his widow, Margaret, and six children, William, Richard, Elizabeth, Eleanor, Mary, and Barbara, all of whom were transported to the Province of Maryland in 1649 by Thomas Hatton the secretary. (Liber ABH, f. 422, Hall of Records, Annapolis, MD.) William Hatton married Elizabeth Wilkinson, dau. of Rev. William Wilkinson, and after her death he married Mary ____. He died in 1713. Richard Hatton of Poplar Hill died testate in February 1675 in St. Mary's County, Maryland. In his will he mentioned his wife Anne, who was a daughter of Col. John Price, his son Richard, and a cousin, Elizabeth Hanson. Elizabeth Hatton married Capt. Luke Gardiner, mentioned above, and after his death in 1674 she married Clement Hill. Eleanor Hatton also married twice. Her first husband was Maj. Thomas Brooke who died in 1676, and her second husband was Col. Henry Darnall who died in 1711. Mary Hatton married Zachary Wade and he died in 1678. Barbara Hatton married first James Johnson and second, Randolph Hanson. Margaret, the widow of Richard Hatton of London, married Capt. Richard Banks.

Col. Nicholas Gassaway

This short survey of the Gassaway family is presented as a prologue to a more comprehensive study of the family which needs to be done. All studies of the Gassaways begin with the founder, Col. Nicholas Gassaway of Anne Arundel County, Maryland. Therefore, there is much repetition in published works, but there are also inevitable differences.

Dr. George Lee Flint, Jr., Mrs. Thomas F. Lankford and Mrs. Kenneth Rutherford are among those who have done considerable research on the families who migrated from the confines of Maryland, and the changes that have been made in the lines are according to their findings.

This study is confined to seven generations and does not include the immediate families of any of these three researchers. Hopefully, this will open the way for contributions to be made to a more thorough genealogical study of the family.

The Gassaway family was allied with a number of prominent Marylanders. Capt. Thomas Besson, father-in-law of Col. Nicholas Gassaway, was elected as one of the burgesses to represent Anne Arundel County in 1666. Through the Lawrence family the descendants of Elizabeth Lawrence and John Gassaway are also descendants of Maj. Richard Ewen, one of the ten commissioners appointed 22 July 1654 to direct the affairs of Maryland under Lord Cromwell. Maj. Richard Ewen's daughter, Elizabeth, married Richard Talbot. Nicholas Gassaway (1697-1757) married Sarah Shipley, the granddaughter of Adam Shipley and the great grandaughter of Charles Stevens. Her descendants are also related to President Abraham Lincoln.

The families, for the most part Quakers, settled in the West River area of Anne Arundel County, Maryland. Thomas Besson was granted 800 acres of land in two tracts patented as Bessenton and Bessenden. Talbot's Timber Neck was granted to Richard Talbot on the south side of West River. Two tracts of land granted to Nicholas Gassaway, Poplar Ridge and Addition adjoined Bessenton owned by Thomas Besson. Maj. Richard Ewen received one of the eight pioneer grants of the Patapsco in November 1652, of 350 acres of land. An additional grant of 600 acres of land called Scotland on the north side of the Severn was surveyed for Maj. Ewen 26 November 1652. The Shipley and Stevens families settled on the Severn River in Anne Arundel County. The site of Shipley's Choice granted to Adam Shipley 30 March 1681 is commemorated by an historical marker. The Lawrence family settled in Calvert County on a 1,048 acre manor called The Deserts. Benjamin Lawrence, Jr., and his wife, Elizabeth Talbot, located on West River, and their home, the place of Ouaker meetings in 1684, is known today as Cedar Park. See pp. 742, 806.

Generations of Gov. Thomas Greene

Greene's Inheritance was an estate that figured prominently in the history of the Greene family of Maryland. A warrant for a tract of land was issued to Gov. Thomas Greene but he died before that patent for the land was issued. The land was re-surveyed and a patent was issued in 1665 to his sons, Leonard, Robert, and Francis, in his stead. The 2,400 acre tract of land lying in Charles County, Maryland, was called Greene's Inheritance, and was divided equally among the three sons. Each separate 800 acre tract of land was known as Greene's Inheritance, and subsequently nearly all fractional parts of that patent retained the same name over a long period of years.

Leonard Greene died testate in 1688 and divided his 800 acres of Greene's Inheritance among his son, who died without issue, and his three married daughters. This left 1,600 acres of Greene' Inheritance in the name of Greene.

Robert Greene's 800 acres of Greene's Inheritance was partially given out as dowers for his daughters, and his son, Thomas, possessed a large portion of the land. Thomas sold 140 acres of his share to Samuel Hanson. Each of Thomas' eight sons was willed 57 acres of Greene's Inheritance, and his widow sold 66 acres to Bennett Greene. The share which Thomas, grandson of Gov. Thomas Greene, inherited was subdivided many times.

Francis Greene willed his 800 acres of Greene's Inheritance to his son, Leonard, in 1707. Leonard, in turn, willed his three sons, Cuthbert, John, and Francis, equal shares in 1733.

Within two generations, the 1,600 acres of Greene's Inheritance which remained in the male line was subdivided, sold, and willed, but in most instances retained the name of Greene's Inheritance. See p. 174.

Generations of David Halliburton

Erle P. Halliburton, Sr., orphaned at age fourteen, stomped his little cardboard suitcase to pieces in front of the courthouse in Ripley, Tennessee, and shaking his fist he vowed he would not return until he had made a million dollars. At the time of his death in 1957 Fortune Magazine rated Erle among the seventy-four wealthiest men in the United States, and conservatively estimated his wealth at about one hundred million dollars. The source of his wealth was his own ingenuity and hard work. In 1921 he had the idea of capping wildcat oil wells under pressure, and with a borrowed pump, a team and wagon, an old tank, a clothesline for measuring depths, and some home-made wooden plugs he was successful in capping oil wells and thus revolutionized the oil industry. The sun never sets on men who drill for oil who are not indebted for this and other inventions perfected by Erle P. Halliburton (Edwin G.,[5] George,[4] Allen,[3] John,[2] David[1]). His grandmother was Emily Halliburton (Benjamin,[3] John,[2] David[1]).

Clair Emory Halliburton struck a gold vein in California about one-half mile from the Spanish Flat where his father had panned for gold in 1849, and it was his father's stories about the gold fields which caused him to think of mining in that particular place. In 1939, this mine called the Alhambra, yielded $900,000 in gold. Clair also left home at an early age. After the death of his mother, he and his father lived with his older sister Alice. Clair, then thirteen, and his eleven year old nephew played hookie from chores to fish and when the same severe punishment meted out to his nephew was not applied to him, Clair packed his little tin suitcase and departed with $12.00 in his pocket. (Henry W.,[4] Charles,[3] Charles,[2] David[1]).

Richard Halliburton was the vagabond of the thirties who swam the Hellespont and climbed the Matterhorn. A Princeton graduate who was hungry for the sea, enthralled his readers with The Royal Road to Romance, The Glorious Adventure, and Seven League Boots as he vividly brought you to the scene whether it be at the bottom of the Inca ceremonial and sacrificial well or following the trail of Ulysses. After eight books and more than 2,000 lectures Richard Halliburton met death at the age of thirty-nine in a final adventure sailing eastward across the Pacific in a Chinese junk to re-discover America as it may have been discovered centuries ago. Hourly the bell tolls from the Halliburton tower on the campus of Southwestern University in Memphis in memory of Richard Halliburton (Wesley,[6] John W.,[5] Col. John H.,[4] John,[3] David,[2] David[1]). His grandmother was Juliet Halliburton (Col. William H.,[4] Thomas,[3] David,[2] David[1]).

Ambrose Halliburton moved from Tennessee to Missouri in 1823, and settled in Randolph County. His son, Judge Westley Halliburton was one of the most prominent men of Northeast Missouri. An outstanding lawyer, he served in both the houses of the General Assembly and was instrumental in preventing the secession of Missouri from the Union at the outbreak of the War between the States. Successive generations of Missouri attorneys were John William Halliburton of Carthage, Missouri and his son, Westley (John W.,[5] Westley,[4] Ambrose,[3] David,[2] David[1]). James Cole Halliburton of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, learned the foundations of good merchandising from his father in the latter's store in Brookfield, Missouri. James and his brothers established a large merchandise mart in Tulsa, Oklahoma, in 1916. James became associated with the McEwen-Halliburton Store in Oklahoma City in 1932. (Thomas,[5] Westley,[4] Ambrose,[3] David,[2] David[1]).

Martin Halliburton, son of David Halliburton and Lucy Reynolds, and brother of Ambrose, was a teacher and progenitor of teachers, doctors, and substantial farmers in Northeast Missouri. He married Frances Turner, and one of their sons was Reuben Pickett Halliburton who was a prominent farmer in Sullivan County, Missouri. He married Cynthia McMurry and their eldest son was Thomas White Halliburton.

Thomas White Halliburton of Randolph County, Missouri, married Martha Elizabeth Rogers. Their eldest son, John Alexander Halliburton, a teacher, married Catherine Holly Peyton, and John's daughter, Myrtle Halliburton, married William Nathaniel Rutherford. See p. 568.

Generations of Nicholas Harper

From extant records we know that Michael Harper and his wife, Isabel, conveyed land 27 January 1760. In another record, Michael was named as the father of Hance Harper, alias Paul Hance or Hans Harper. Mathew Harper served as administrator of the estate of Michael Harper in 1767 and it is reasonable to assume that he was Michael's son.

Adam Harper was granted 126 acres of land 14 July 1769 at the head of Dry Run in Augusta County. Adam and his wife Katherine conveyed a tract of land above the mouth of Dry Branch to Nicholas Harper 17 May 1775, who was in all probability Lt. Nicholas Harper who married Elizabeth Penninger. Mrs. Richard Paul of Minneapolis, Minnesota, wrote 3 June 1937 that Lt. Nicholas Harper had a brother Adam.

Nicholas Harper (1706-1803) and his wife, Elizabeth Behrn, accompanied their son Jacob Harper (1726-1803) to Woodford County, Kentucky, prior to 1790.

From Early Western Augusta Pioneers, 1957, by George W. Cleek, we have the following assignments:

Michael Harper = Isabel
- Lt. Nicholas
- Jacob, naturalized 1765
- Philip, naturalized 1777
- Eve C.
- Adam, b. 1741

From Henry Harper of Randolph County, Virginia, 1934, by Howard B. Grant we have the following assignments: Adam Harper = Katherine
- Adam
- Jacob, b. 1745
- Lt. Nicholas
- Philip
- Eve Elizabeth
- Mary

From a letter written by Hattie Lu Mack, Racine, Wisconsin, 8 October 1959, and other NSDAR records we have the following assignments:

Adam Harper, b. 1700 — Nicholas Harper = Elizabeth Behrn
- Adam (1730-1806) — (1706-1803) (1708-1804)
- Jacob, b. 1745 — Jacob (1726-1803)
- Lt. Nicholas
- Philip
- Eva
- Elizabeth
- Mary

Morton, in History of Pendleton County, West Virginia, discussed the possible relationships of the early Harper pioneers. He stated: "Jacob was a soldier in the Indian War. He was naturalized in 1765, and Philip in 1774. These two were probably brothers, and the Eve C. who married Matthew Dice, was almost certaintly a sister of Philip." As Jacob was a son of Nicholas, it is probable that Philip and Eve C. were also children of Nicholas Harper and Elizabeth Behrn. It is probable that the line may be as follows:

Three immigrant brothers: Michael Harper, Adam Harper, and Nicholas Harper.

Michael Harper = Isabel
d. 1767
- Hance (Paul Hans)
- Matthew

Adam Harper = Katherine
b. 1700
- Adam (1730-1806)
- Lt. Nicholas, b. c, 1738
- Elizabeth
- Mary
- Jacob, b. 1745

Nicholas Harper = Elizabeth Behrn
(1706-1803) (1708-1804)
- Jacob (1726-1803)
- Philip, naturalized 1777
- Eve C.

In 1871 he, his wife, Arminda, and their first son drove in a wagon to Cherokee County, Kansas, where they made their home. He served the county two terms as deputy sheriff.

Generations of John Hayden

Gideon Hayden and his wife, Margaret Davy, had a son John Hayden who was christened 2 November 1606 in Ottery St. Mary, County Devon, England.

Margaret Davy was born about 1583 in County Devon, England, and was a daughter of John Davie and Margaret Southcott. Her father served three terms as mayor of Exeter in County Devon. Her paternal grandparents were Robert Davie and Miss Bardolph, daughter of John Bardolph. According to the archive records on file in the Genealogical Library in Salt Lake City, Utah, Margaret Davy's maternal grandparents were George Southcott and Frances Robins of County Devon, England.

Among the doctors who were descended from John Hayden were Dr. Enoch Hayden (1755-1843) who practiced medicine on the frontiers of Hampshire County, Virginia, Fairfax County, Virginia, Bourbon County, Kentucky, and Marion County, Missouri; Dr. Clement Hayden (1811-1885) who moved from Raymond, Maine, to Pike County, Missouri; Dr. Anaximander Belemus Hayden (1807-1891) who moved from Virginia to Texas in 1874; Dr. Niles Hayden (1781-1849) who died from exposure to the cold in Iowa as he rode horseback to make his calls; Dr. John Hayden (1808-1870) who moved from Kentucky to Van Buren County, Iowa, and in 1850 to Gardner, Kansas; and Dr. Anaximander Montgomery Hayden (b. 1852), a notable surgeon in Evansville, Indiana.

One of the outstanding lawyers was Peyton Randolph Hayden (1796-1855) of Boonville, Missouri, who was considered one of the ablest lawyers of the state. Hayden, described in the Boonville Weekly Advertiser 30 December 1898, "was a vigorous and eloquent pleader, possessed many of the arts of elocution, told stories with a snap, and was quick at repartee...Hayden was a courtly gentleman, but very profane." In retrospect he was described as a fancier of horseflesh and the best mounted of the lawyers on the circuit. He was kind hearted, genial, and full of humor.

John Hayden, son of William Hayden and Lydia Kierstede, served with his father during the Revolutionary War and was pensioned 3 May 1833 when he was eighty-four years of age. He moved his family from New Jersey to Fayette County, Pennsylvania, and was the first to produce iron west of the Allegheny mountains. He blazed the 242 mile trail from Hagerstown, Maryland, to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, in 1789, which was later called the National Pike Route. He became known as "Pennsylvania John" by his numerous descendants.

"Pennsylvania John" had two sons named Jacob. The elder of the two migrated to Kentucky and was known as "Kentucky Jake." In October 1849 he moved with members of his family to Iowa, and subsequently to Jackson County, Missouri. He left a large number of descendants in both Iowa and Missouri. His younger brother, known as "Pennsylvania Jake," remained in Pennsylvania and left descendants.

The Rev. Amos Sutton Hayden was an outstanding teacher and minister. A son of Samuel Hayden and Sophia Gray, he and his brother, William, were leaders in the establishment of the Eclectic Institute in 1867 which was later Hiram College in Ohio. He was principal of the Western Reserve Eclectic Institute from 1850 to 1857 at Hiram. He was author of two books, The Sacred Melodeon and History of the Disciples in the Western Reserve. In a letter dated 19 January 1859 he wrote the names of his grand parents and their children, and the names of his parents and their children.

Warren Sherman Hayden was graduated from Hiram College in 1892 with a Bachelor of Philosophy degree. He was admitted to the bar in Ohio in 1898. In 1903 he formed a partnership with Otto Miller under the name of Hayden, Miller and Company and dealt with investment securities the remainder of his life. He researched his ancestry and his research on the Hayden family was edited and published as The Hayden Ancestry of Warren Sherman Hayden in 1936. See p. 592.

326 Zebah Hayden, b. 1777
327 Asa Hayden, b. 1780

Zebah Hayden served in the American Revolution. He was a sergeant and some of his descendants have established their DAR lineage to Zebah Hayden.

Zebah Hayden died intestate. Capt. John Vinton was appointed administrator of his estate 17 August 1784. It is stated in the administration that he left a widow and four children. A fifth child was born shortly after his death. The fifth child was mistakenly called Persis, for she, as Persis Pratt was enumerated on the 1860 census in the household of Joseph Nichols, her son-in-law, in River Falls, Wisconsin. She reported her age as eighty-three years, and stated she was born in Massachusetts.[42] None of the above named children, cited in The Hayden Family Magazine, appear to be the fifth posthumous child. Cable French was appointed guardian of this family of children 11 August 1789.[43]

Christopher Hayden, Jr., was baptized 31 October 1756 at Shrewsbury, New Jersey, in the Episcopal Church. Subsequent to his marriage, he and his wife moved to Pennsylvania and settled at Redstone now known as Brownsville. In 1787 a tract of land was surveyed for Christopher Hayden in the Jersey Settlement in Westmoreland, now Allegheny County, Pennsylvania. In 1789 he purchased a tract of land in Rostraver Township and he and his wife, Agnes, sold this land in 1804. About 1805 they moved by flatboat to Hamilton County, Ohio. Christopher Hayden's children were cited in The Hayden Ancestry of Warren Sherman Hayden.[48]

Thomas Hayden, born in Nova Scotia, took to the sea as a young man with his brother, John. On a ship bound for Maderia, he dreamed one night that he saw his ship burning and the masts fell into the sea. He related this dream to Capt. Elisha Hopkins the following morning, and before the day was over he watched his ship burn and the masts fall into the sea, and he and his fellow crewman were prisoners aboard a French man-of-war. Following four and one-half months imprisonment in France, the sixty prisoners were marched six-hundred miles to a port to be exchanged, only to find that the exchange ship had already sailed. The men were again imprisoned, for six weeks, and then discharged. Thomas Hayden returned to Nova Scotia and built the first house at Haydentown. He had a large family of children.[61]

Jonathan Hayden conveyed several tracts of land in Fayette County, Pennsylvania between 1793 and 1815. He and his wife Rebecca, "now of the state of Kentucky," conveyed a portion of land called Hard Bargain 9 June 1815. Their fifth child was born in Kentucky. Jonathan Hayden moved his family from Cabin Creek, Lewis County, Kentucky, to Montgomery County, Indiana, in 1828 and settled on the White River.

Information on this family was supplied by Mrs. Ira Taylor.[82]

Stephen Hayden was two years of age at the time his father moved from Morristown, New Jersey, to Westmoreland, now Fayette County, Pennsylvania. He grew to manhood in the town, Haydentown, which was named in honor of his father, and left there by 1805. He lived in Ohio until 1838 and then moved on westward to the Mississippi River. He settled at the trading post which developed into the town of Burlington, Iowa.

Stephen's father was called Pennsylvania John. The names of his children and their respective dates of birth were listed in The Hayden Family Magazine in 1929. Ambrose M. Hayden wrote a letter to Mrs. Ira Taylor in which he gave an account of the Hayden family beginning with William Hayden of New Jersey. Miss Pearl Hayden, of Burlington, Iowa, a great granddaughter of Stephen, also supplied Charles Hayden with information concerning this branch of the family.[83]

Daniel Hayden moved from Fayette County, Pennsylvania, and settled in Hardin County, Kentucky. A letter written by Peyton Randolph Hayden, a lawyer in Boonville, Missouri, and addressed to Jacob Hayden, Daniel's brother, was answered by Daniel 20 March 1850, as Jacob had by that time left Kentucky and settled in Iowa.

In an interesting style, Daniel conveyed considerable information on the Hayden family. He mentioned that he had twice visited the home of Dr. Enoch Hayden, Peyton's father, in Bourbon County, Kentucky.

Dr. William Belemus Hayden visited Daniel Hayden at least once in every five years from 1800 until his death. In this way the happenings of the Hayden family were kept current for Daniel Hayden.

Daniel wrote: "I never expect to have any personal acquaintance with you as my age forbids my traveling. I am now seventy in June and at this time in good health. I conclude with my best wishes to all of your fathers family and I subscribe myself to your relatives. Daniel Hayden" [84]

Daniel Hayden descendants held a reunion on the J. P. Hayden farm near Gorin, Missouri, 21 August 1932. About ninety friends and relatives were present. Among those bearing the Hayden surname were:

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hayden — Mr. and Mrs. Pete Hayden
Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hayden — W. W. Hayden
Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hayden and son.

Daniel Hayden was enumerated on the 1860 census in the household of his son, Daniel Warder Hayden, in Scotland County, Missouri. He was then eighty years of age and stated he was born in Pennsylvania.

Jacob Hayden, called Kentucky Jake by his relatives, moved from his home in Kentucky in October 1849 and settled in Iowa. The letter subsequently addressed to him by Peyton Randolph Hayden of Boonville, Missouri, was not forwarded to him but was delivered to his sister, Sarah (Hayden) Taylor, and was answered by his brother, Daniel Hayden, 20 March 1850.

A great grandson, Dr. John D. Hayden, wrote that his great grandfather, Kentucky Jake, was the father of nineteen children all of whom were dead by 1928 except one.

Jacob Hayden and his family were included in the Hayden genealogy based on The Hayden Family Magazine.[85]

Jacob Hayden descendants held a reunion 14 August 1932 in Swope Park in Kansas City, Missouri, with thirty-eight in attendance.

Peyton Randolph Hayden, a Kentuckian, began reading law at the age of fifteen in the law office of Judge Benjamin Mills in northern Kentucky. Hayden came to the Territory of Missouri in 1817, and after spending one year at Cape Girardean, he pushed westward and taught school in 1818 in the booming frontier town of Franklin in Howard County. He was then licensed to practice law and moved across the Missouri River and settled in Boonville in Cooper County. He soon earned the reputation of being one of the ablest lawyers of the state, and one of the most distinguished members of the Missouri bar.[90] He was a strong, vigorous, and argumentative speaker.[91]

As he rode the circuit he carried with him a book which he called "Hayden's Digest" in which he wrote a synopsis of each of his cases and the authorities which he had used to prove his points.[92] He was described by members of his profession as a most remarkable man, and one of unquestioned integrity.[93]

Peyton Randolph Hayden received a letter dated 29 March 1843 from his father, Dr. Enoch Hayden of Lees Creek in Marion County, Missouri. Copies of the letter are extant and show a warm relationship between the two men.

Peyton wrote a letter about 1850 to Jacob Hayden of Harden County, Kentucky, requesting information about relatives in Kentucky. Copies of the reply, written by Jacob's brother, Daniel, are also extant.

The names of the children of Peyton Randolph Hayden and their respective dates of birth were included in The Hayden Family.[94]

Rev. Obadiah Holmes

Backus in his History of the Baptists, published in Boston in 1777, wrote: "the best account of Obadiah Holmes that I have seen is in a manuscript which he left to his children. He says: 'first I must remember my honored parents who were faithful in their generation and of good report among men and brought up their children tenderly and honorably. Three sons they brought up in the University of Oxford...' "

Alumni Oxonensis yields the following: "John Hulme, son of Robert Hulme, of Reddish, Co. Lanc., pleb; matriculated May 18, 1625, ae. 17;" and "Samuel Hulme, son of Robert Hulme, of Reddish, Co. Lanc., pleb; matriculated Feb. 15, 1632-3, ae. 16; B.A. May 17, 1636." The third brother educated at Oxford may have been Obadiah Holmes, rather than his brother Robert. Other Holme or Hulme entries appear in Alumni Oxonensis with parentage unindicated.

Robert Hulme, in his will dated 20 August 1640, of Reddish in the County of Lancashire, bequeathed to his son, Robert, the "messuage in which I now dwell and which has been held...by my predecessors tyme out of mynd..." In his autobiography, Rev. Obadiah Holmes referred to a field called "Twenty Acres." His brother, Robert Hulme of Reddish, who died in 1697, attended Gorton Chapel. There was a locality on Gorton called "Twenty Acres" all of which was a suburb of Manchester, and is a valuable link in the establishment of the origin of Rev. Obadiah Holmes. The marriage certificate of Robert Holme and Katherine Johnson, 8 October 1605, is extant in the Cheshire Record Office at Stockport, and the baptismal record of Obadiah, son of Robert Hulme dated 18 March 1609 is extant in the Register of the Church of St. James at Didsbury.

Robert Hulme, who was buried 14 January 1605 at Stockport, County Cheshire, England, was the father of Robert Hulme of Reddish, mentioned above. In his will, dated 11 August 1602 and proved at Chester 28 January 1605, Robert Hulme named his wife Alice, two sons, Robert and John, a daughter Jane Hulme and a grandson, George Hoyd.

In the Visitation of Lancashire in 1664 there is a pedigree of the Hulme family, of Hulme. It commences in the person of Lawrence Hulme, of Manchester, 9th of Henry V, [1422], and runs through Goeffrey, Ralph, Stephen, Robert, Ralph, William, William, and Banaster, born about 1657, with their various alliances. No direct connection between Rev. Obadiah Holmes and this armorial family is known, but there was undoubtedly a close relationship.

Thus the ancestral family of the Rev. Obadiah Holmes was seated in County Lancashire, England, at Reddish, as proven through extant wills and baptismal records.

Rev. Obadiah Holmes was a man of strong conviction in his religious beliefs, and rather than sacrifice his convictions he suffered great persecution by being whipped in the street in Boston. He withdrew to the free colony of Rhode Island and was instrumental in the establishment of the Baptist Church and the principle of freedom of worship in this country.

His son Obadiah Holmes was one of the nine Baptists who assisted in organizing the first Baptist Church in South Jersey in 1690, and while he was never ordained as a minister, Obadiah occasionally preached. Obadiah Holmes and his brother Jonathan, sons of the Rev. Obadiah Holmes, obtained 1,600 acres of land in Pleasant Valley near Holmdel in Monmouth County, New Jersey. At the time of their settlement, Holmdel was called Baptisttown signifying the role the Baptist Church played in the community, and the influence of the two brothers in the establishment of the Baptist Church.

This section of the descendants of the Rev. Obadiah Holmes is only fragmentary as his descendants were estimated to number five thousand in 1790. (Historical and Genealogical Miscellany, 1914, by Dr. John E. Stillwell.) See p. 96.

Generations of Roger Jett

In the patent of Francis Triplett, the immigrant, dated the 21st day of January 1666, he is styled 'Mr. Francis Triplett.' Among the headrights mentioned in this patent of Francis Triplett are Peter Jett, Will Jett, Peter Jett, Jr., Mary Jett and Martha Jett. These people were probably the ancestors of the Jett family of King George County, one of whom named John Jett is believed to have married a daughter of Francis Triplett, the immigrant...The Jett family is believed to have come from London (Virginia Magazine of History and Biography, vol. 22, 1913, p. 175).

An affidavit subscribed and sworn 28 February 1969 is as follows: "I, Donald E. Jett, state that I am a resident of McCracken County, Kentucky; that I was born on June 22, 1889, and will be 80 years of age on June 22, 1969; that I am a son of William Augustus Jett, whose father was Albin Jett; that Albin Jett, my grandfather, had a brother, Anson Jett, and that I remember my father, William Augustus Jett, speaking many times of his "Uncle Anson Jett," and when I was a small boy, my father pointed out to me a certain Location in this county, and said, 'That is where Uncle Anson Jett used to live.' Both Albin and Anson Jett came to McCracken County, Kentucky, from Montgomery County, Tennessee (The Jett Family of Virginia, 1970, p. 342).

Ben F. Jett wrote: "My grandfather was Edward Jett and my father was Alfred Jett. My son is Ben F. Jett. My oldest son is Albert Ferdinand Jett being named for my brother Ferdinand Jett and his uncle J. Albert Ross. My maternal grandmother's name was Duval, who married a Duval. Hence my mother was a Duval. For me, I had four sisters and eight brothers. Two of whom, Thomas Coke Jett and John Wesley Jett, were killed in the Civil War, at Petersburg, Virginia, and one brother Richard Dwight Jett, who died in camp at Clarksville, Tennessee. And I, Ben F. Jett, alone of the four brothers who went as soldeirs, returned at the close of the war, 1861-1865" (Ibid., p. 353). See p. 552.

St. Margaret's Westminister, London, England

St. Margaret's Westminister stands adjacent to Westminister Abbey, and has been the parish church of the House of Commons since 1614. The present church is the third St. Margaret's, and was consecrated in 1523.

Col. Nicholas Gassaway was baptized in this church.

Generations of Dr. Hans Kierstede

The marriage record of Mr. Hans Kierstede, Chirurgyn, j. m. Van Maegdenburg en Sara Roelofs, j. d. Van Amsterdam, beyde womende tot N. Amsterdam is extant in the marriage book at the Collegiate Church in New York City.

Other records from Madgeburg, Prussia, Saxony, show that Kierstede was originally Schierstede and that Hans Schierstede was pronounced as if the "S" belonged only to the first name, Hans.

Variant spellings of the name Kierstede entered in the Fairfield/Gansegat Dutch Church records as quoted by Kenn Stryker-Rodda, in a letter dated 27 January 1976, were "Kersted, Kierstead, Kiersted, and Casted. Master Hans himself wrote his name as Hans Kierstedt, but Joachim wrote his surname Kierstet."

Dr. Hans Kierstede immigrated to New Amsterdam in the service of the West India Company. He gave testimony as to the cause of the death of Gerrit Jansen 18 May 1638 (New York Historical Manuscripts: Dutch, vol. 1, 1974, p, 26). On 28 August 1645 he was spoken of as "late in the company's service," and he maintained a private practice until his death in 1666. He perfected an ointment which was manufactured under a carefully guarded family secret and sold in New York City as late as 1896. Gov. Peter Stuyvesant refused to send him to the battle front during the Esopus campaign and stated in his letter to Capt. Creiger dated 27 August 1663 that Kierstede "cannot be spared here without detriment to the whole place and all the inhabitants." Mrs. Van Rensselaer wrote in History of the City of New York that "Kierstede's descendants followed in his footsteps with a constancy rare in our changeful America: it is believed that always since his time New York has had a physician or an apothecary of his blood and name."

Two of his sons, Dr. Hans Kierstede and Dr. Jacobus Kierstede, were surgeons in New York City. Dr. Hans Kierstede died early in 1692, and his brother, Dr. Jacobus Kierstede, practiced medicine until his death which probably occurred late in 1701.

Dr. Hans Kierstede of the third generation, and the third in line to carry the name, referred to himself as "Chirugeon" in his will dated 3 March 1712. He continued in his practice until his death 5 February 1728.

Dr. Hans Kierstede, son of Roelof Kierstede and Ytie Aldertse Roosa, was a physician in Kingston, New York, in the third generation. He died between the date of his will, 26 January 1758, and the date of probate, 12 May 1759.

Dr. Roelof Kierstede, son of Dr. Hans Kierstede, immediately above, and his wife, Ariaanje Tappen, was baptized 24 January 1703 and died in May 1751. His death was much lamented and was "a real publick Loss."

Two of the sons of Dr. Roelof Kierstede were physicians in the fifth generation. Dr. Christopher Kierstede was a physician in Kingston and Saugerties until the time of his death 23 March 1791. Dr. Luke Kierstede was a physician in New York City and in Kingston, New York.

Dr. Hans Kierstede's great granddaughter, Lydia Kierstede, married William Hayden and the tradition of physician continued in their branch of the family. Their son, Dr. Enoch Hayden, practiced medicine in Hardy and Grant counties, Virginia, during the 1780's, in Bourbon County, Kentucky, from about 1793 to 1829, and in Marion County, Missouri, from 1830 until his death.

Generations of Mordecai McKinney

Mordecai McKinney died testate in Hunterdon County, New Jersey, 20 May 1760. He settled first in Readington Township and attended the Dutch Reformed Church at Raritan in adjoining Somerset County. He later moved to the hill country in Lebanon Township and improved a farm of 615 acres of land. He built a large grist mill, a saw mill, a two-story dwelling house, a large barn and other outbuildings. Nearly 100 acres of land was cleared for plow land and he planted a young orchard (New Jersey Archives (1) vol. 27, p. 227). As a miller, Mordecai McKinney was an important man in the community and attracted business from many miles around. Mordecai's progeny scattered and established their homes on the American frontiers, ever shifting westward.

John McKinney, eldest son of Mordecai McKinney and Mary Sebring, moved to Lycoming County, Pennsylvanis, probably in the early 1740's. In 1757 he moved to Gates County, North Carolina, and died at Sunbury in 1772. He was a shareholder in the Dismal Swamp Canal in Virginia (Letter written by Patricia (McKinney) Kirkwood, 13 January 1976). His son John died testate in Hunterdon County, New Jersey, and his son James died testate in Surry County, North Carolina. It was the latter's descendants who moved to Highland County, Ohio, and subsequently to Polk County, Iowa.

William McKinney, son of Mordecai McKinney and Mary Sebring, settled in Warren County, New Jersey, and developed a farm of considerable worth. He died testate and named each of his children by his second wife in his will; his son John as an executor; and his son William as a minor. He appointed "my brother-in-law Jacob Ten Eyck" as one of his executors (Letter written by Caroline B. Kratovil, 6 February 1970). His son Abraham was a Revolutionary War soldier whose descendants moved to Clermont County, Ohio. His son William, presumably a son by his first wife (Conversation with Annabel (McKinney) Hammer, 21 March 1977), moved from White Deer Valley in Pennsylvania to Ritchie County, Virginia, now West Virginia (Letter written by Iona Prunty Gamble, 28 November 1970).

Daniel McKinney, son of Mordecai McKinney and Mary Sebring, remained in the county in which he was born, Hunterdon County, New Jersey. Several of his sons,however, moved to southwest Virginia. His son James Collin McKinney had sons who settled in Indiana. His son Daniel McKinney established McKinney's Station in Lincoln County, Kentucky, and it was his progeny who branched into Missouri and Texas. In 1833 his daughter-in-law, widow of his son Ebenezer, accompanied several of her sons to Randolph County, Missouri, and numerous descendants live in the county today. Collin McKinney and his brother Daniel Younger McKinney moved to Red River County, Texas, and later moved to Collin County, near McKinney and both the county and the town were named in honor of Collin McKinney. He was one of the five men who drafted the Texas Declaration of Independence, and was one of the fifty-six signers of the declaration. He served in the legislature and in his absence from his home wrote letters to his wife and other relatives which are extant.

Jacob McKinney, son of Mordecai McKinney and Mary Sebring, moved to Northumberland County, Pennsylvania, and subsequently to Rowan County, North Carolina. Records show he was in Rowan County in October 1757 (Rowan Co. Wills, Book A, p. 59).

Mordecai McKinney, son of Mordecai McKinney and Mary Sebring, moved with his family to Dauphin County, Pennsylvania.

David McKinney, son of Mordecai McKinney and Mary Sebring, moved to Northumberland County, Pennsylvania, and established a mill and a distillery at Sunbury. His sons also settled in Pennsylvania. See p. 350.

Generations of John Merryman

Records pertaining to John Merryman and John Merryman, Jr., probably the great grandfather and grandfather of John Merryman of Goochland and Cumberland counties, Virginia, are included in vol. 1, p. 504. See p. 548.

1 John Merryman, probably a grandson, or possibly a son of John Merryman, Jr. (John), b. about 1700, Henrico County, Virginia; d. after 19 December 1767, probably in Cumberland County, Virginia.
Elizabeth Pleasants, dau. of Joseph Pleasants and Martha Cocke, b. about 1703, Henrico County, Virginia; d. after 19 December 1767, probably Cumberland County, Virginia; m. John Merryman, about 1725.

\+ 2 John Merryman, Jr., d. 1769
\+ 3 Thomas Merryman, d. 1760
4 Elizabeth Merryman, m. 28 Jan. 1750, William Hobson
5 Agnes Merryman, m. 24 Aug. 1752, John Burton
6 Mary Merryman, m. John Rutherford
\+ 7 Jesse Merryman
8 Judith Merryman, m. 25 Dec. 1762, John Butterworth Colvard

John Merryman patented two tracts of land, 400 acres in each tract, in Goochland County, Virginia, 28 September 1730 and 26 June 1731.[1] On 31 August 1757 Thomas Merryman conveyed one-half of the 400 acre tract of land on Muddy Creek south of James River, then lying in Cumberland County which had been patented 28 September 1730. John and Elizabeth Merryman signed the conveyance as witnesses.[2] John Merryman, Sr., and Elizabeth his wife conveyed land on both sides of Muddy Creek, 19 December 1767 to John Merryman the younger.[3] These were the last signatures of John Merryman, Sr., and Elizabeth, his wife, which the compilers were able to locate.

John Merryman and Elizabeth Pleasants were listed as the parents of John, Jr., Thomas, Elizabeth, Agnes, Jesse, and Judith.[4] According to a family record written in 1906,[5] and a court order dated 21 December 1791 in Lincoln County, Kentucky,[6] Mary Merryman married John Rutherford. The family of John Merryman and Elizabeth Pleasants was the only Merryman family in Goochland, now Cumberland County, Virginia, so they were also the parents of Mary. In 1759 John Rutherford was licensed to keep an ordinary at Merryman's. In 1750 John Merryman was surety on the marriage bond of Elizabeth Merryman and William Hobson. On 24 August 1752, John Merryman wrote a letter of consent for Agnes Merryman to marry John Burton, and with his consent dated 25 December 1762, Judith Merryman and John Butterworth Colvard obtained a license to wed.

William John Merryman was a farmer in Morgan County, Indiana, the county in which he was born, until the 1880's. In 1881 he made an overland trip to California to pan for gold, hoping to strike it rich. He arrived in California without mishap and went to the streams in Placer County northwest of Sacremento. He wrote a letter from New Castle 3 July 1881. Plaqued by poor health and poor luck he wrote a letter 17 August 1881 stating he would "start home tomorrow." He continued as an Indiana farmer in Brown County until his death.

The names of his children and their dates of birth were compiled by Nova Mertens of Indianapolis.[18]

41 (20) Peter A. Merryman (William,[4] Francis,[3] Thomas,[2] John[1]), b. 2 December 1836, Morgan County, Indiana; d. 3 November 1865, Morgan County, Indiana, bur. in Jole Cemetery near Morgantown, Indiana.

Generations of Henry Neale

Capt. James Neale of Charles County, Maryland, immigrated to the Province of Maryland from London prior to 1642. He was a son of Raphael Neale of Drury Lane, London, and of Wollaston, Northamptonshire. Upon his arrival in the colonies he was granted a manor which he called Wollaston. He sat in the Maryland Assembly and was a member of the Privy Council. While he is not known to be kin to the Henry Neale family of Massachusetts, his descendants did marry into several of the families included in this genealogy. His daughter Jane Neale married William Boarman. Of his grandchildren, Henry married Mary Gardiner; Benjamin married Mary Edelen; and Margaret married Richard Edelen and such alliances continued generation after generation. Capt. James Neale was a contemporary of Henry Neale of Massachusetts. Nothing is known by the compilers of Henry Neale's ancestry except that he immigrated from England. There is always a possibility that persons of the same surname may be related. See p. 592.

Generations of Philip Peyton

In his discussion of the Peyton Family of Virginia, Bernard Chamberlain wrote: "Thomas Peyton (1416-1484), Knight of the Shire, High Sheriff of Cambridge and Huntingdon, had two marriages, the first to Margaret Bernard...and second to Margaret Francis, through whom the Bury St. Edmunds branch of the family is descended...

"Perhaps not a branching but an extension of the Bury St. Edmunds Branch occurred when many of the Cambridge and Suffolk Peytons went west in the 16th Century because the wool trade of East Anglia sought greener pastures.

"Of the three Peytons who are known to have established the family in Virginia, at least the lineage is known of Maj. Robert Peyton, who founded the Gloucester County line, considerable but not quite enough is known about Henry Peyton who was progenitor of the Westmoreland County line, and very little is known of the Philip Peyton who came to Stafford County from Gloucestershire.

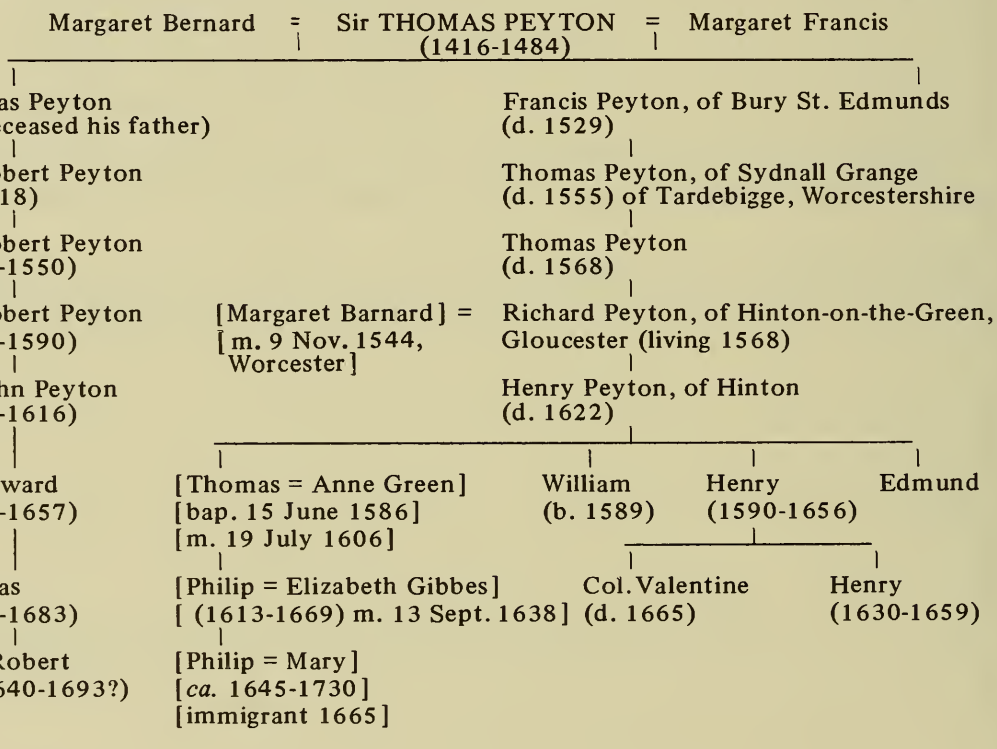
"Henry Peyton and Philip Peyton were descendants of Peytons who had moved westward to Warwickshire, Gloucestershire, and Worcestershire." (The Peytons of Virginia, 1976, pp. 13-14).

Patricia Joan (Kirchherr) Allen copied the following records from the Worcester Index which is on file in The Genealogical Society Library, Salt Lake City, Utah:

"PAYTON, THOMAS, son of Henry Peyton 15 June 1586, Upper Arley, p. 6,083.

"PAITEN, RICHARD M. marriage to Margaret Barnard, 9 November 1544, Hartlebury, p. 6,082."

The following tentative chart prepared by Noel Currer-Briggs, F.S.G., for the Peyton Society of Virginia is tentatively enlarged with the information in brackets based on the County Worcester Index. If the Richard M. Peyton who married Margaret Barnard 9 Nov. 1544 is the same as the Richard Peyton who was living in County Gloucester in 1568; and if the Henry Peyton named as the father of the Thomas Peyton who was christened 15 June 1586 is the same as the Henry Peyton (d. 1622); and if Thomas Peyton who was christened 15 June 1586 is the same Thomas who married Anne Green 19 July 1606 in County Gloucester, England (see vol. 1, p. 551); and if the tentative chart by Noel Currer-Briggs is correct, then the lineage would be as expanded and shown in the following chart.



See p. 552.

GENERATIONS OF PHILIP PEYTON

1 Philip Peyton (Philip,[2] Thomas[1]), b. about 1645 in Bisley Parish, County Gloucester, England; d. in 1730, Stafford County, Virginia.
Mary, m. Philip Peyton, about 1675 in Virginia.

2 Philip Peyton
\+ 3 Charles Peyton
\+ 4 Valentine Peyton
5 Susanna Peyton, bap. 20 Oct. 1686

Philip Peyton immigrated to Virginia in 1665 as an indentured servant from Bristol, England. He settled in Stafford County, Virginia, and he and his wife, Mary, signed land conveyances jointly from 31 May 1679 through 11 September 1700. It was stated in Virginia Genealogies, page 562, by Henry Peyton of Glendale that his grandfather George Peyton [no. 7] "had two uncles who came from England." He was evidently confused as to the relationship and probably had reference to Philip Peyton, immigrant in 1665, as some sort of cousin of Col. Valentine and Henry Peyton who immigrated to Virginia in the mid 1650's. See page 465 in this volume.

Philip Peyton died testate but the text of the will has been lost. Philip and Charles Peyton were listed in the General Index to Deeds and Wills as devisees of the Peyton estate.[1] Valentine was proved as a son of Philip Peyton in a deed of gift 24 June 1705 in which Philip Peyton conveyed 50 acres of land to Valentine Peyton and his heirs, expressed in the "Blood and Posterity of the said Philip Peyton."[2] The bishop's transcripts of Hinton-on-the-Green in England contain the baptismal record of Susanna, daughter of Philip and Mary Peyton, 20 October 1685,[3] which shows that Philip and Mary returned to England, on business or for a visit, which was nothing unusual for the times.

3 (1) Charles Peyton (Philip,[3] Philip,[2] Thomas[1]), b. about 1678 in Virginia.

\+ 6 William Peyton, d. 1771
\+ 7 George Peyton
\+ 8 John Peyton, d. 1782

Charles Peyton was a tobacco counter in Stafford County, Virginia, and presented a report in court 9 November 1699 showing the number of persons cultivating tobacco between the Potomac and the lower end of Overwharton Parish.

William, George, and John Peyton, nos. 300, 301, and 303 in Virginia Genealogies, were cited as men born in Stafford County.[4] Each one named a son Charles. Due to the location, the time, and the perpetuation of the name Charles, they have been assigned as sons of Charles Peyton.

4 (1) Valentine Peyton (Philip,[3] Philip,[2] Thomas[1]), b. about 1680 in Stafford County, Virginia.

\+ 9 Philip Peyton
\+ 10 Henry Peyton
\+ 11 John Peyton
\+ 12 William Peyton

Valentine Peyton was designated as a vestryman in Overwharton Parish, Stafford County, Virginia, 22 May 1749.[5] He received 50 acres of land in Stafford County, by deed of gift from Philip Peyton, his father, 14 June 1705.[6]

In the Draper Manuscripts, Guffey Peyton [no. 73] stated that Henry Peyton was the father of Yelverton Peyton of Albemarle County, Virginia, and that Yelverton, John, Ephraim, and Thomas were brothers.[7] William Craven Peyton [no. 175] gave testimony that Yelverton was a brother of John and Ephraim Peyton of Albemarle County, Virginia.[8]

In The Peytons of Virginia on page 228 Henry Peyton [no. 10] was cited as the father of Yelverton Peyton [no. 41] and Henry Peyton [no. 45]. On page 237, also in The Peytons of Virginia, Henry Peyton [no. 10] was again cited as the father of Henry Peyton [no. 45] and Philip Peyton [no. 9] was cited as an uncle of Henry Peyton [no. 45].

In Hayden's Virginia Genealogies, page 498, an excerpt from a letter written by Judge Ephraim Geoffrey Peyton [no. 95] reads that his grandfather, Ephraim Peyton was descended from Valentine Peyton.

The compilers are aware that Judge Ephraim Geoffrey Peyton could have been referring to either Valentine Peyton, vestryman in Overwharton Parish in 1749, or to Valentine Peyton, vestryman in Dettingen Parish in 1749. However, these testimonies cited above when studied as a group, indicate that the father of Philip and Henry Peyton was Valentine Peyton, vestryman in Overwharton Parish in 1749 who received 50 acres of land by deed of gift from Philip Peyton, his father, 14 June 1705. Two other Peytons, John and William, were assigned as brothers of Philip and Henry as they were contemporaries and their land was adjacent to the land owned by Philip Peyton in Amherst County, Virginia.[9]

The compilers are also aware that Emily Turner Peyton reported to the Rev. Horace E. Hayden, about 1890, that the father of John and Ephraim was Robert Peyton. However, she was one more generation remote from the father of John and Ephraim Peyton than was Guffey Peyton, and he gave his testimony to Draper twenty-five years before she wrote to the Rev. Hayden.

William Peyton was designated as William Peyton of Overwharton Parish, Stafford County, Virginia, in a grant of land dated 11 June 1725. He conveyed two 50 acre tracts of land out of this grant to John Kilgore of Spotsylvania County 1 March 1726, the said land lying in St. George's Parish.

William Peyton died testate. In his will, dated 27 July 1771 and proved 21 October 1771 in Culpeper County, Virginia, he named his sons William, Charles, and Benjamin, and daughters Ann Stone, Mary Smith, Judith Allen, Susannah Perfect, and Hannah.[10]

7 (3) George Peyton (Charles,[4] Philip,[3] Philip,[2] Thomas[1]), b. in Stafford, County, Virginia.

21 George Peyton
22 James Peyton
23 John Peyton
24 Charles Peyton
25 William Peyton

George Peyton of Stafford County, Virginia, subsequently lived in Prince William County, Virginia.

George Peyton's grandson, Henry Peyton of Glendale, wrote a letter to Col. John Lewis Peyton stating: "my grandfather George Peyton was one of five brothers, who had two uncles, who came from England, who married and left issue." [11] Henry Peyton of Glendale was probably correct in stating that his grandfather was one of five brothers, but he was writing from a traditional story which had been handed down for several generations. He may have used the term "uncles" inadvertently for "cousins" for he was undoubtedly speaking of Col. Valentine Peyton and Henry Peyton, brothers who immigrated to Westmoreland County, now Stafford County, Virginia, in the mid 1650's, and their relationship to Philip Peyton of Stafford County, Virginia, who immigrated in 1665.

Henry Peyton was named as the father of Yelverton, John, Ephraim, and Thomas Peyton in the Draper Manuscripts. Guffey Peyton, a son of Yelverton Peyton of Madison County, Kentucky, gave the following testimony to Lyman Draper in 1863: "Yelverton Peyton, son of Henry Peyton, was a native of Albemarle County, Virginia, on James River. The father was killed by Indians in going from his house to his barn on Virginia frontiers and Yelverton, John, Ephraim, and Thomas Peyton, brothers all grown, and a stranger named Bonham, followed the Indians..."[17] Henry Peyton was named as the father of Yelverton and Henry Peyton in The Peytons of Virginia.[18] Other testimony that "Yelverton Peyton was brother of John and Ephraim Peyton from Albemarle County, Virginia," was submitted to Draper by William Craven Peyton,[19] son of Craven Peyton. It was in Craven's home that Yelverton lived most of the last twenty years of his life in Madison County, Kentucky.[20]

Valentine Peyton lived next to his father and among his brothers in Amherst County, Virginia. Philip and Winifred Peyton of Amherst County conveyed 142 acres of land on Horsley Creek to Valentine Peyton, 6 December 1779.[23] This was part of a larger tract of land patented by Philip Peyton. Valentine and his wife, Mary, sold this tract of land in September 1784 to Isaac Wright.[24] It was described as the land patented by Philip Peyton and it was adjacent to land owned by Philip Peyton.

Valentine appointed John Brown, Jr., his attorney-in-fact, 13 September 1790, stating that he "Valentine Peyton of Lyncoln and State of Virginia, District of Kentucky, has many accounts and items of business in Amherst, and he cannot come here to attend to them."[25] An examination of the tax list of Kentucky from April 1794 through 1819 for Lincoln County shows Valentine Peyton was located on the Hanging Fork. He was taxed from 1795 through 1819. At no time were two Valentine Peytons listed simultaneously. It is possible that Valentine, son of Philip Peyton and Winifred Bussel, could have moved from Lincoln County, Kentucky, between 1790 and 1795, and Valentine, son of John Peyton and Seth Harrison of Prince William County, Virginia, could have moved into Lincoln County, between 1790 and 1795.[26]

Valentine Peyton received the bounty land due to Lt. Robert Peyton and Ens. George Peyton, both of whom were killed in the Revolutionary War. It is possible that Lt. Robert Peyton and Ens. George Peyton were also sons of Philip Peyton and Winifred Bussel and Valentine was their heir at large. On the other hand, Lt. Robert Peyton, Ens. George Peyton and the Valentine Peyton who received the bounty land and died testate in 1831 may have been sons of John Peyton and Seth Harrison of Prince William County, Virginia.[26]

Daniel Peyton was commissioned as a major 15 June 1803 in the 1st Battalion, 37th Regiment, Kentucky militia. He was appointed justice of peace in Floyd County, Kentucky, in 1808, and in Jackson County, Alabama, in 1820. He was elected as representative to the Alabama State Legislature in 1823 and was re-elected in 1825.

Maj. Daniel Peyton died intestate. In 1890 Dr. Daniel Peyton of Stockton, California, cited Daniel Peyton as his grandfather and A. C. Peyton as his father.[27] In a power of attorney dated 12 December 1836, Daniel Peyton of Morgan County, Kentucky, named Ashcraft Peyton as his brother.[28]

Yelverton Peyton went to Kentucky District in Virginia in 1775. The names of Yelverton Peyton and Anna Guffey are among those included on the monument at Boonesboro as a memorial to those who were at Fort Boonesborough after 1775 and before 1777.[30] Yelverton was listed as one of the landowners on Silver Creek in 1775,[31] and he received expenses for serving as juryman 10 August 1795 in Madison County, Kentucky, in the trial of Thomas Kennedy.[32]

Yelverton Peyton was an Indian scout and ranged on the Kentucky frontier in Lincoln and Madison counties, Kentucky, under Col. Benjamin Logan. His son, Guffey, related to Lyman Draper in 1863 many of Yelverton's harrowing experiences with the Indians as he ranged the frontier. A transcription of these incidents, Yelverton's pension application, and his will are included in "Descendants of Yelverton Peyton and Anna Guffey," compiled by Leota (Payton) Large in 1973, and are also in the files of the compilers.

Yelverton Peyton died testate. In his will, dated 20 April 1846 and proved 10 February 1849 in Madison County, Kentucky, he named his wife, Ann, and each of his children, devising a share to the heirs of his son John, deceased.[33] The names of his children and their respective dates of birth were recorded in the family Bible of his son, Guffey Peyton.[34]

Simeon Valentine Peyton, his brothers Randolph and Buford, and his sister, Lucy Hill, submitted a petition for the bounty land due their father, Valentine Peyton who died in 1831, as heir at law of Lt. Robert Peyton and Ens. George Peyton, both of whom were killed in the Revolutionary War. The petition was entered in court in Owen County, Kentucky, in 1834.

James Franklin Peyton, son of Simeon Valentine Peyton, reared Dr. William N. Craig of Stanford, Kentucky, in his home. In a biographical sketch of Dr. James Franklin Peyton, the Craigs referred to the "Memoirs of Yelverton Peyton" in the Draper Papers for information on his ancestry. The compilers were able to find information on Yelverton Peyton in the Draper Manuscripts but were unable to locate information on James Franklin Peyton and his ancestors.

John G. Peyton and his wife, Sarah, conveyed land on Taylor's Fork in Madison County, Kentucky, to N. Ballard in 1818 and moved to Howard County, Missouri, shortly thereafter. His name was on a petition to Congress read 14 March 1820 as one of the citizens of Howard County who defended the frontier against the Indians.

John G. Peyton died testate. In his will, dated 8 September 1823 and proved 22 June 1829 in Howard County, Missouri, he named three sons, Jackson, Lindsey, and William.[47] His daughters were listed in the manuscript entitled "Descendants of Yelverton Peyton and Anna Guffey."

72 (41) Yelverton Peyton, Jr. (Yelverton,[6] Henry,[5] Valentine,[4] Philip,[3] Philip,[2] Thomas[1]), b. 17 December 1793, Madison County, Kentucky; d. 12 April 1858, bur. in Randolph County, Missouri, near Huntsville.

170 Emily Peyton, b. 10 Apr. 1840; d. 18 Sept. 1851

Guffey Peyton was sixty-seven years of age at the time he talked with Lyman Draper about his father. Guffey stated that his father, Yelverton Peyton was a son of Henry Peyton of Albemarle County, Virginia, on the James River. The father was killed by Indians in going from his house to his barn on Virginia frontiers and Yelverton, John, Ephraim, and Thomas Peyton brothers all grown...followed the Indians.[49]

74 (41) Craven Peyton (Yelverton,[6] Henry,[5] Valentine,[4] Philip,[3] Philip,[2] Thomas[1]), b. 2 June 1799, Madison County, Kentucky; d. 13 September 1786, bur. in family cemetery near Peytontown Baptist Church, Madison County.

176 Margaret Elizabeth Peyton, b. 10 May 1835; d. 23 Feb. 1874
177 Semira Francis Peyton, b. 11 Dec. 1837

Craven Peyton gave testimony that he was a son of Yelverton Peyton who lived most of the last twenty years of his life in Craven's home. He stated: "Yelverton Peyton was born in the State of Virginia in Albemarle County on 25 November 1755 and remained there until the fall of 79 at which time he and his three brothers together came to Kentucky."[50]

178 Emily Turner Peyton, b. 1831
179 Balie Peyton, b. 1832
+ 180 John Bell Peyton

Hon. Balie Peyton was elected as a member of Congress from the state of Tennessee on the Whig ticket in 1833, and served four years in the House of Representatives.[51] He served as an envoy to Chili from 1849 to 1853.

In 1853 he moved to San Francisco to practice law, and was one of the most ardent proponents of the "Know Nothings," or American political party, in California. He was elected as the official head of the party in California at the Know Nothing Convention in 1857.[52] He later returned to Tennessee.

His daughter, Miss Emily Turner Peyton, supplied the Rev. Horace E. Hayden with the information that her great grandfather's name was Robert Peyton.[53] This is, of course, in conflict with the testimony given by Guffey Peyton that Yelverton, a brother of John and Ephraim Peyton, was a son of Henry Peyton.[54]

85 (42) Hon. Joseph Hopkins Peyton, M.D. (John,[6] Henry,[5] Valentine,[4] Philip,[3] Philip,[2] Thomas[1]), b. 20 May 1808, Sumner County, Tennessee; d. 11 November 1845 in Tennessee.

+ 181 John Campbell Peyton, b. 7 Feb. 1842
+ 182 Joseph Balie Peyton, b. 16 May 1845

Hon. Joseph Hopkins Peyton was graduated with an M.D. degree in 1837. He was elected to the Senate of Tennessee in 1840 and to the United States Congress in 1843 with re-election in 1845.[55]

He wrote a letter 14 February 1845 which was included in the Draper papers: "My brother Balie Peyton at New Orleans can probably give you some interesting facts in relation to the adventures and history of our father and uncle, John and Ephraim Peyton...My oldest brother Robert H. Peyton of Gallatin, Tennessee, could in all probability, give you some interesting facts.[56]

Generations of John Pleasants

John Pleasants (1644/5-1698) and the succeeding generations of his family occupied a unique position in the social order of Henrico. "As seen from an examination of the records," says Dr. J. Hall Pleasants, of Baltimore, "the Norwich family of Plesance or Pleasants was distinctly of the middle class. The earliest English record of the name so far encountered is the Norwich reference of 1454 [William Pleasance, breweer, 33 Henry VI, mentioned in Rye's Calendar of Freemen of Norwich]. The name itself is probably derived from Plaisaunce, the name of an old French town. Norwich was the principal seat of the worsted weaving industry and large numbers of French weavers came there in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries."

From his first appearance in the colony, about 1665, John Pleasants occupied a position of the first rank socially. His wife was Jane (nee Larcome) Tucker, the widow of Samuel Tucker, a ship's captain, engaged in trade with the colonies, and it is not improbable that by this alliance he strengthened his financial resources. John Pleasants engaged in merchandising from the very first and was for years a factor for the Paggens, London merchants engaged in colonial trade. Pleasants was a convert to Quakerism and in fact became the very center of the Henrico meeting and one of the most influential members of the sect in Virginia. Wise in his generation, far-sighted, thrifty, a man evidently of strong convictions and possessing the courage of them. Though a Quaker he was in 1692/3 elected a member of the House of Burgesses from Henrico County, but religious scruples forbade his taking the oath of office, and his seat was declared vacant. This was not the first time that he had experienced the weight of the laws which were aimed at the practices of his sect. Several times he encountered the local authorities in his unswerving loyalty to his religious convictions. John Pleasants died in the year 1698, having amassed a comfortable fortune. His sons, John Pleasants, the second, and Joseph Pleasants, who apparently inherited much of their father's energetic spirit, increased the family fortunes and by their marriages, respectively, with women of the Cary and Cocke families made their position in the social system even more secure. Elizabeth, the daughter of John Pleasants, the first, married James Cocke, son of Thomas Cocke, who was a son of the first Richard Cocke, of Henrico. In the third and fourth generations of the Pleasants family we find marriages with Randolphs, Jordans, Scotts, etc. From generation to generation the Pleasantses held to their merchandising and planting and Quakerism. From the two former they literally piled up wealth, but even the tempation of influential political offices which might have been had at their bidding, seems never to have made them waver in allegiance to their religious convictions. John Pleasants immigrated to Virginia in 1665 as a factor or assistant to a merchant. In 1679 he patented 548 acres of land in the Curles of the James River and later acquired several other tracts of land which were mentioned in his will as 900 acres of land called Timber Slash; a tract of 2,600 acres of land and another tract of 50 acres of land.

After he was elected to the House of Burgesses he refused to take the oath 3 March 1693 which was administered to newly elected burgesses and was thereby disqualified from representing Henrico County

John and his wife were levied a fine for their effrontery to the Church of England when they refused to have a marriage ceremony performed according to the rules of the church but abided by their Quaker marriage ceremony which took place 29 November 1670.

John Pleasants died testate. In his will, dated 27 September 1690 and proved 1 June 1698, he named his wife and children and made bequests to each.[1]

John Pleasants died testate. His will, dated 11 August 1771, was among records destroyed by "the enemy" and was re-entered into the record at a meeting held by the commissioners appointed to restore Henrico records 8 May 1783. His first bequest was to free eight of his slaves and provide homes for them among his children. He made provision for the eventual liberty of the slaves willed to his children. He held extensive land in several counties. To his son Thomas he devised a tract of land in Henrico County and three tracts of land in Cumberland County: one tract lying on Deep Creek; 1,100 acres of land on Muddy Creek; and 1,200 acres of land on Angola Creek. His son Robert was to receive the 319 acre dwelling plantation, a tract of 250 acres of land, and two tracts of unspecified acreage.To his son Jonathan he willed 400 acres of land on Jones' Creek; 360 acres of land in Charlotte County; and a tract of land on Four Mile Creek. He named each of his children in his will and made bequests to his grandchildren, Samuel and Jane, children of his deceased son John. He also made a bequest to his grandson, Charles Woodson, and one to his granddaughter, Margaret Pleasants.[5]

Rev. Johannes T. Polhemius

Johann Theodor Polhemius was born about 1570 and died after 1611, perhaps at Godramstein. He was a schoolmaster at Dorn-Dunkheim from 1606 to 1610, and in Godramstein from 1610 to 1611. He was living at Boikirchen in 1602 and is believed to be the father of the Rev. Johannes Theodorus Polhemius, the first Reformed Dutch minister on Long Island.

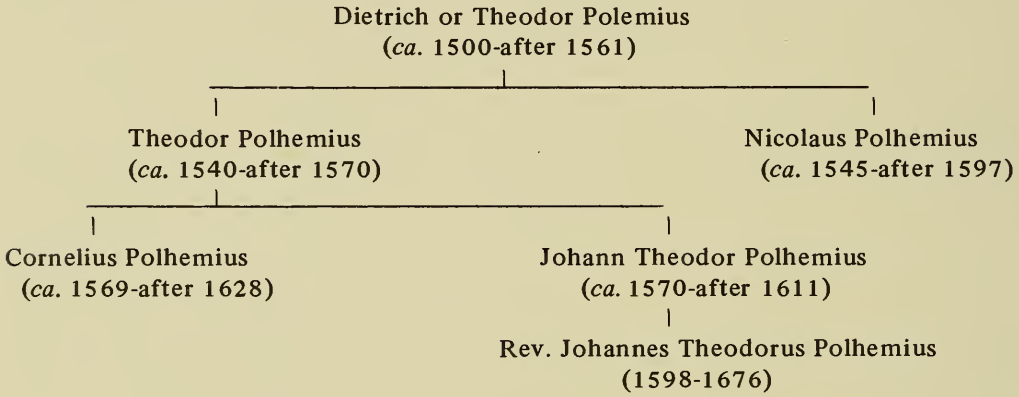
Johann Theodor Polhemius was undoubtedly a brother of Cornelius Polhemius dictus Hammerstein who was born about 1569 at Niederhausen and died after 1628, perhaps at Eimsheim. He was a schoolmaster and minister. Cornelius was a son of Theodor Polhemius and a nephew of Nicholaus Polhemius.

Theodor (Dietrich) Polhemius was born about 1540 at Mechtelhausen and died after 1570-1575. In 1569 he was minister at Niederhausen on the Nahe. It is thought his wife was named Hammerstein.

Nicolaus Polhemius, cited as an uncle of Cornelius Polhemius dictus Hammerstein, was born about 1545 at Mechtelhausen and died after 1597. In 1563 he was Stipendiat at Hornbach; pastor at Lettweiler from 1569 to 1589; and preacher in Hirsau in 1597. He was a son of Dietrich or Theodor Polemius.

Dietrich or Theodor Polemius was born about 1500-1510, perhaps at Oppendeim and died after 1545. He was a minister at Mechtelhaysen about 1540-1545, and perhaps later in Zweibrucken. At present, no Mechtelhausen exists. A document dated 1561 mentions a small deserted locality on the Nahe River called "Mechtelnhuisen." During the 15th and 16th centuries Dietrich and Theodor were used interchangeably. (National Genealogical Society Quarterly, vol. 43, 1955, pp. 129-130.)

Predicated on the above information, which the compilers assume to be correct, the ancestry of the Rev. Johannes Theodorus Polhemius would be as follows:



The compilers are grateful to Milton Rubincam for citing this article in the National Genealogical Society Quarterly in a review of the first edition of Genealogical History of Our Ancestors.

Charles Lewis Roach was an elder in the Mudcreek Primitive Baptist Church in Jackson County, Alabama. A memorial was read in his honor at the fourth annual session of the Tennessee Association in October 1875. The writer set forth the theological beliefs of Elder Roach and stated that he was prominent as a preacher and was successful in building up the churches in which he spoke.[4]

In addition to being a minister, he was also a farmer, and owned a large plantation and a large number of slaves at the time of his death.

The names of his children and their dates of birth were compiled by one of his descendants, Mary N. (Roach) Holland.

Generations of Robert Rutherford

Robert Rutherford succeeded George Washington as representative from Frederick County to the Virginia House of Burgesses in 1766. He signed the Virginia Nonimportation Resolutions of 1769 and 1770, and with George Washington and Thomas Jefferson signed the dispatches which were sent to call the late members of the House of Burgesses to meet in a body at Williamsburg 1 August 1774. He was a member of the Republican party and was elected to the Third and Fourth Congresses. Mary Dobbin, daughter of William Dobbin, married Robert Rutherford (Capt. Thomas,[3] Robert,[2] Robert[1]).

Col. Robert Rutherford served in the Revolutionary War. He settled in Newberry County, South Carolina, and was a member of the State Legislature for many years. Dorothy Ann Brooks married Col. Robert Rutherford (John,[2] Robert[1]) and they were the parents of Col. John Rutherford, Revolutionary War soldier who was distinguished for bravery. Col. John Rutherford received bounty land in Wilkes and Baldwin counties, Georgia. He married Mary Hubert and they were the parents of eight children.

John Rutherford was the progenitor of the Rutherford families in Randolph County, Missouri. Born about 1730 in Essex County, Virginia, he married about 1750 in Cumberland County, Virginia. He was administered the oath of allegiance 13 September 1777 near Fort Chiswell in Montgomery County, Virginia, and was guarding the frontier in Lincoln County, Kentucky, in the spring of 1781. Mary Merryman married John Rutherford (John,[3] Robert,[2] Robert[1]). Their sons Joseph and James and daughters Sarah, who married Stephen Pemberton, and Susanna, who married Ebenezer McKinney, moved to Randolph and Howard counties, Missouri.

Joseph Rutherford, son of John Rutherford and Mary Merryman, was born in Cumberland County, Virginia, in 1752 and died in Randolph County, Missouri, in 1848. He married Sarah Shelton and they were the parents of Jesse, Shelton, James, and Sally Ellis Rutherford.

Shelton Rutherford, son of Joseph Rutherford and Sarah Shelton, was a prominent farmer on the Jessamine-Fayette county line in Kentucky, and moved to Randolph County, Missouri, in 1831. Shelton married Hannah Roman and they were the parents of nine children among whom were Dr. Joseph Rutherford, one of the early physicians of Randolph County, and William Turner Rutherford.

William Turner Rutherford, son of Shelton Rutherford and Hannah Roman, was successful in the tobacco manufacturing business and the coal mining business at Huntsville, Missouri. He married Phebe Jane Dameron and they were the parents of ten children among whom was Hayden Lewis Rutherford who was a partner with his father in the tobacco business and mining operations.

James Rutherford, son of John Rutherford and Mary Merryman, moved his family in 1826 from Lincoln County, Kentucky, to Howard County, Missouri. He later moved to Salt River Township in Randolph County, Missouri. He married Mary Anne Huntsman, daughter of Josiah Huntsman and Jane McKinney, and they were the parents of Eli, Martha, Merriman, Joseph, C. Perry, Nathaniel Huston, James, and William Huff Rutherford. William Newton Rutherford, son of Merriman Rutherford and Nancy Orr, was a prominent lawyer in Moberly, Missouri, and subsequently in Stockton, California.

Nathaniel Huston Rutherford, son of James Rutherford and Mary Anne Huntsman, entered land in Randolph County, Missouri, adjoining that of his father. He married Martha Ann Dameron, by whom he had two daughters, Mary Ann and Susan Jane. He married secondly Ann Delana Jett, daughter of Asa Hulen Jett and Elizabeth A. Davis. Their children were: Martha Elizabeth, Emma, Ida Jackson, Nathaniel Huston, Dora Belle, Mary Ann, William Nathaniel, Joseph Perry, Charles Daniel and James Herbert Rutherford.

William Nathaniel Rutherford, son of Nathaniel Huston Rutherford and Ann Delana Jett, married Myrtle Halliburton, daughter of John Alexander Halliburton and Catherine Holly Peyton, and they were the parents of William Kenneth, Lucille, and Huston White Rutherford. William Kenneth Rutherford married Anna Clay Zimmerman and their children are Anna Christene, Shirley Kay, and William Clay Rutherford. See pp. 350, 548.

Generations of Adam Shipley

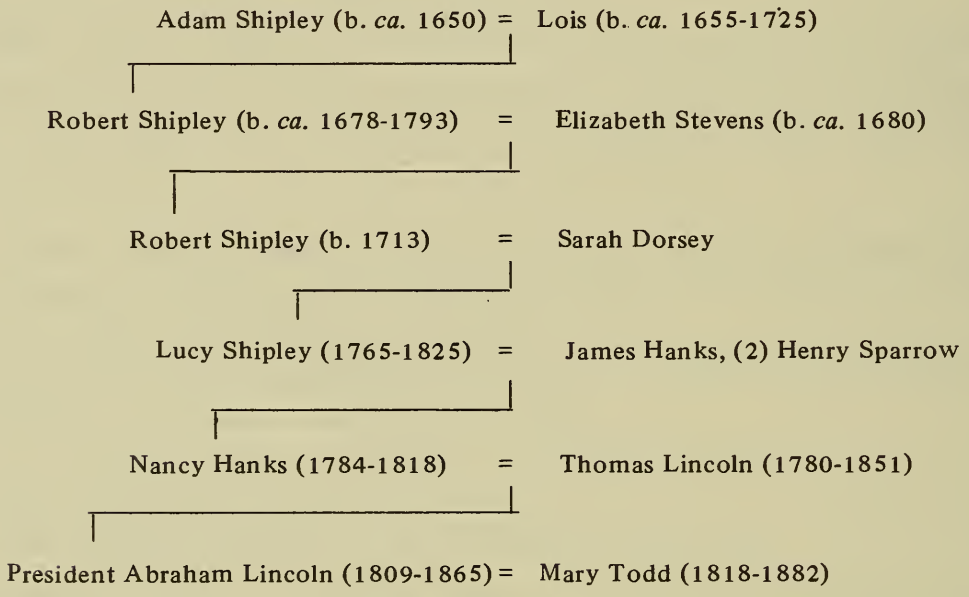
The Shipleys of Maryland who are descended from Adam Shipley, called Adam The First, look back three hundred years to the founder who came to the New World as an indentured servant and built a legacy. The Shipleys of Maryland 1938 was the first compilation of his descendants. The Shipleys of Maryland 1968 was published in 1971 and work progresses steadily toward a forthcoming publication.

The Shipleys of Maryland is an organized family association with dues paying members and a Shipley Newsletter. An annual meeting is held in Maryland each fall, and a Shipley tour of England was held in September 1977.

Other Shipley family groups have been organized, among which is the Shipley Historical Society at York, Pennsylvania.

Other publications on Shipley descendants are The Sellmans by William Marshall Sellman; The Shipleys of Madison County, Indiana by Donald L. Wilson; The Shipley-Mitchell-Thompson Family, by Stith Thompson; Our Family by Walton E. Shipley; and The Barnes Family by Robert W. Barnes.

The sixteenth President of the United States, Abraham Lincoln, was a descendant of Adam Shipley. The Shipleys of Maryland 1968 stated that the grandparents of Abraham Lincoln were Lucy Shipley and James Hanks.



The name of the mother of Nancy Hanks seems to still be controversial. In the genealogy The Ancestry of Abraham Lincoln by Lea and Hutchinson in 1909, they affirm without doubt that the mother of Nancy Hanks who married Thomas Lincoln was Nancy Shipley who married Joseph Hanks, and that Lucy Shipley and her husband Richard Berry were her foster parents after she was orphaned by the death of her mother. (The Ancestry of Abraham Lincoln, 1909, pp. 105-108, 122.)

The Shipleys of Maryland 1968 shows that Rachel Shipley married Richard Berry and their eight children were named in Berry's will. It further shows that Lucy Shipley married James Hanks and they were the parents of Nancy Hanks, the mother of the sixteenth President, Abraham Lincoln. They also show that Nancy Shipley married Joseph Hanks. (The Shipleys of Maryland 1968, 1971, published by The Shipleys of Maryland, 1971, pp. 370-378.) See p. 742.

Adam Shipley was transported into the Province of Maryland in 1668 as an indentured servant.[1] By 10 January 1675 he had completed his obligation for his transportation and had acquired the 50 acres of land which was due to him according to law. A marker was placed on Route 3 on the south side of the Severn River in Anne Arundel County in 1968 not only marking the patent of land made by Adam Shipley but also commemorating the 300th year of Shipleys in Maryland.

It is probable that Adam Shipley married Lois Howard whose family lived on Howard and Porter's Range, 100 acres of which was transferred to Adam Shipley 5 April 1679. The names of the children of Adam and Lois Shipley have been verified through land records in Anne Arundel County.[2]

Richard Shipley administered his father's estate 16 August 1698, and retained 300 acres of land known as Adam the First on Elk Ridge for himself. In November 1722 he acquired 200 acres of land called Brothers Partnership.

Richard Shipley died testate. In his will, dated 5 October 1724 and proved 24 August 1725, he named all of his children except John. The Registers of St. Anne's Church at Annapolis, and of St. John's Parish in Baltimore County carry identical records of the baptism of their son John, 29 July 1717.[3]

Robert Shipley lived on the Great Falls of the Patapsco River on 250 acres of land called Shipley's Discovery.

Robert Shipley died testate. In his will, dated 6 December 1761 and proved 9 March 1763, he named his four youngest children.[4] The names of all of his children and their respective dates of birth were recorded in the register of Queen Caroline Parish in northern Anne Arundel County, Maryland.[5]

8 (2) Adam Shipley (Richard,[2] Adam[1]), b. about 1705, Anne Arundel, County, Maryland; d. in 1778 before 4 April, Anne Arundel County, Maryland, bur. in family cemetery at Adam's Garden near Sykesville, Maryland.

Adam Shipley purchased from his brothers their shares of Adam the First which his grandfather, Adam Shipley, acquired in March 1687 on Elk Ridge. The land was re-surveyed in 1746 and re-named Adam the Second. In 1754 he patented a tract of 1,212 acres of land called Adam's Garden, a portion of which was subdivided among his daughters Margaret, Ruth, and Eurith.

Adam Shipley died testate. In his will, dated 19 March 1767 and proved 4 April 1778, he named his three sons, and appointed his wife, Ruth, as executrix. His three daughters were proved in the transfer of land to each.

Generations of Thomas Spalding

The early Spaldings of Maryland and Kentucky were predominately of Catholic faith. They were sometimes dis-franchised for their religious views, and were prevented from holding public offices in many instances. The names of those who entered the priesthood and cloisters are too numerous to mention here. One of the most famous and influential individuals was the Rt. Rev. Martin John Spalding, Archibishop of Baltimore. His priesthood was marked by his great organizational ability and by his distinctive achievements. (The Spalding Memorial, 1897, by Edward Spalding, pp. 962-964).

A nephew of Archbishop Spalding was John Lancaster Spalding, Bishop of Peoria. He had a vigor of intellect that few possess and was one of the most interesting and brilliant members of the Roman Catholic episcopacy in America. He was prevailed upon to write the biography of his distinguished uncle after the latter's death. He did so with such clarity and depth of reflection that the celebrated and renowned Brownson in his review, stated the "book is almost the only biography worthy of the name to be found in American Catholic literature." He was detached from the diocese at Louisville, Kentucky, and accepted the archdiocese of New York. He subsequently was assigned to the diocese of Peoria. (Ibid., pp. 972-973).

Mother Catherine Spalding, Mother Superior of the Sisters of Charity of Nazareth, was one of the original Postulants at the time the sisterhood was organized 1 December 1812, in a small log cabin in Nelson County, Kentucky. The parentage and ancestry of Mother Catherine Spalding has long been a subject of researchers as she was orphaned at an early age. She was born 23 December 1793 and died 20 March 1858 in Nelson County, Kentucky. She was definitely a granddaughter of Basil Spalding and Catherine Greene. From a study of records it has been concluded that Mother Catherine Spalding was reared by her aunt, Elizabeth Spalding and her husband Thomas Elder, and that she was a daughter of Elizabeth's brother, Edward Spalding and his wife Juliet Boarman. (The Spalding Family of Maryland, Kentucky and Georgia, vol. 2, 1963, by Hughes Spalding, pp. 251-253; "Ancestry of Mother Catherine Spalding," by Harry Wright Newman, 2 June 1973.

The will of Philip Spalding of Prince George's County was dated 9 February 1828 and proved 25 March 1829. The ancestry of this Philip Spalding is not known to the compilers although he undoubtedly was related to the Spaldings of Prince George's County. In his will he named as his daughters: Eliza Pumphry, Maria Spalding, Catherine Spalding, Christine Kerney, and Elizabeth Jane Kemp; and his son, John William Spalding. Four grandchildren, Eliza Etcherson, Margaret Glen, Sarah Glen and Archibald B. Glen were named in the will. Witnesses were Richard Young, Levin Boone, and Thomas Jamison. Levin Boone was appointed administrator. (Prince George's Co. Wills, Liber TT1, f.426, Courthouse, Upper Marlboro, MD.)

Information concerning the identity of this Philip Spalding is solicited by the compilers. They would also like to find a document which states in writing the names of the parents of James E. Spalding who married Eleanor (Gardiner) Boone 16 December 1797 in Prince George's County, Maryland, and who died testate 9 December 1852 in Nelson County, Kentucky.

Three other Spaldings mentioned in The Spalding Memorial also remain unidentified: Ignatius Spalding, no. 14838; John Spalding, no. 15069; and Snowden Spalding, no. 15113. See p. 174.

GENERATIONS OF THOMAS SPALDING

1 Thomas Spalding, b. about 1640 in England, probably County Suffolk, d. about 1713, St. Mary's County, Maryland.

John Spalding inherited part of St. Giles in St. Mary's County from his father, Thomas Spalding. John and his brother, Thomas, bought 100 acres of land called the Tavern 4 December 1712; and he and his brother, William, bought 165 acres of land which they called Two Brothers 10 December 1714. John acquired 200 acres in a tract of land near Port Tobacco called Greene's Inheritance, and another tract of land called Beaver Dam Manor. His dwelling plantation called Calverton Manor lay in Charles County, Maryland.

John's first wife and mother of all of his children, except Charles, was a daughter of Edward Field of St. Mary's County as proved in the latter's will.

John Spalding died testate. In his will, dated 18 January 1725 and proved 14 September 1726, he named his wife, Priscilla, his sons, John, William, Basil and Charles, and his daughter Mary.[2]

Clement Spalding died intestate. His widow, Ann, was re-married to John Baptist Mattingly before 26 July 1759 at which time the estate of her step-father, John Spalding, was settled. In Johnson's MSS no children were assigned to Clement Spalding and Ann Fenwick. According to a Mrs. Lalley of Baltimore, Maryland, the Edward Spalding who married Ann Dant was a son of Clement Spalding and not Edward Spalding.[11]

Peter Spalding preceded his wife in death. His widow, Mary Spalding, died testate. In her will, dated 10 September 1788 and proved 10 March 1789 in St. Mary's County, she named each of their children except John. John Spalding was called John of Peter Spalding on the 1790 census.[14]

27 (5) James Spalding (Peter,[2] Thomas[1]), b. about 1723, St. Mary's County, Maryland.

99 John Spalding

James Spalding was mentioned in various depositions in connection with a lawsuit between John S. Spalding and Henry Spalding. He was named as a son of Peter Spalding in the settlement of the latter's estate 21 July 1741.

James Spalding died intestate. John was named as a son of James Spalding in the will of Michael Spalding which was proved in St. Mary's County, Maryland, 13 October 1803.[15]

28 (5) Michael Spalding (Peter,[2] Thomas[1]), b. about 1726, St. Mary's County, Maryland; d. in 1803 between 2 October and 13 October, St. Mary's County, Maryland.

Susanna, m. Michael Spalding.

100 Michael Spalding

Michael Spalding died testate. In his will, dated 2 October 1803 and proved 13 October 1803 in St. Mary's County, he willed his estate to his wife, Susanna, with entail to his son, Michael Spalding.[16]

  104 Sarah Anne Spalding, d. 14 Feb. 1823; m. Ignatius Simms
  105 Susan Spalding, m. 21 June 1811, George Boswell

James Spalding died intestate. His widow presented an inventory in court in October 1800, and relinquished the administration of the estate to their son John. The other Spaldings contemporary with James Spalding in Prince George's County died testate and accounted for their children in their wills, and none indicated a son sixteen years old or older on the 1790 census. As James Spalding reported two males in his household sixteen years old or older on the 1790 census, it is logical to assume that he was the only one who could be the father of a son born in 1774. Anne, Mary, John, and Thomas P. E. Spalding conveyed a tract of land with their mother, Mary, 26 August 1810.[17]

35 (9) Henry Spalding (Basil,[3] John,[2] Thomas[1]), b. about 1749 in Maryland, probably in Charles County; d. 19 February 1816, aged 69, bur. in the Catholic Cemetery, Taneytown, Frederick, now Carroll County, Maryland.

128 William Spalding, b. 15 June 1805; d. 22 Aug. 1830
129 Elizabeth Teresa Spalding, b. 8 Mar. 1807

Basil Spalding was a prominent planter in Charles County, Maryland.

He died testate. His will, dated 11 September 1829, was proved 15 November 1828. Three children, Teresa, Christina, and Francis, predeceased him.

Basil Spalding recorded the names of his children and their respective dates of birth in his family Bible.

42 (9) Edward Spalding (Basil,[3] John,[2] Thomas[1]), b. in Maryland, probably in Charles County.

Sarah Housley, m. Edward Spalding, 7 December 1799, Nelson County, Kentucky.

Edward Spalding was listed on the 1790 census in Charles County, Maryland, and had moved to Nelson County, Kentucky, by 1798 at which time he was listed on the tax list for Nelson County. He was appointed constable in Nelson County 14 September 1801.

Dr. Johnson was convinced that Edward Spalding and Juliet Boarman were the parents of Mother Catherine Spalding and Sister Ann Spalding. The names of Edward's children were listed by Dr. Joseph E. Johnson in his manuscript.[18]

45 (9) George Hillary Spalding (Basil,[3] John,[2] Thomas[1]), b. 10 February 1770 in Maryland, probably in Charles County; d. 16 September 1820.

Thomas Spalding who died in November 1819 as a son of Thomas Spalding and Catherine Cooper is one of the changes made from "The Spalding Family of Maryland and Kentucky" by Dr. Joseph E. Johnson. It is the belief of Charles E. Fenwick that the Thomas Spalding who died testate in 1791 was a son of Thomas Spalding and Honora Cole.[20] The names of the two wives and the children of Thomas Spalding who died in 1819 were contributed by Bro. Thomas W. Spalding of Louisville, Kentucky.

Benedict Spalding left Calvert County with his mother after the death of his father, and established a home in St. Mary's County, Maryland. Among the tracts of land which he owned was 175 1/8 acres of land called St. Giles, which he deeded to Elias Smith 29 March 1791. He then moved to Kentucky and was listed on the tax list in Washington County in 1792. He represented Washington County in the Kentucky Legislature and was both justice of peace and sheriff of Washington County.

Benedict Spalding died testate. His will, written in October 1813, was proved 19 October 1815. The names of his children and their dates of birth were included in the Johnson manuscript.[22] The Lewis I. Spalding cited in The Spalding Memorial is one and the same as Ignatius Aloysius Spalding.

Polly Codnover, m. Joseph Spalding.

Joseph Spalding was probably the eldest child of John Aaron Spalding and Nancy Norris. He was married in 1812 which precludes his date of birth assigned as 1800 in "The Spalding Family of Maryland and Kentucky,"

Crolian William Edelen wrote: "Considering the number of marriages contracted by Joseph Spalding after he left his legitimate wife, Nancy Norris, in Kentucky, there is the possibility that the Joseph Spalding in Missouri, assumed by some to be the son of Moses Clark Spalding, may be the same Joseph Spalding raising another family in Missouri. According to tradition in my line, Joseph, son of John Aaron Spalding, fought in the War of 1812 at Fort Vincennes in Indiana. He returned home only briefly after his service and then went back to Indiana and then to Missouri. It is doubtful, however, that he would do this with his own relatives living in the same vicinity. Their religious principles would force them to speak out against it, so I may be wrong."[43]

Lt. Nicholas Stillwell

Lt. Nicholas Stillwell participated in expeditions against the Indians in Virginia and accompanied Claiborne on the ill-fated expedition to Kent Island whereby he lost his citizenship in Virginia. Upon his arrival in New Amsterdam, he was welcomed by the Dutch. In 1659 he moved to Gravesend, Long Island, and was immediately nominated and confirmed as magistrate. He was commissioned as Lieutenant of an English Troop 6 July 1663 by Peter Stuyvesant and ordered to proceed against the Indians. From the 26 July until 5 September the Indians eluded Stillwell and his men, but on 5 September the Indians were surprised in one of their forts, utterly routed, and the Esopus nation nearly annihilated. While Stuyvesant was preying on the Indians, the English were preying on Stuyvesant. He immediately recalled Lt. Stillwell to Gravesend to strengthen his defenses. James Chrystie arrived in Gravesend 24 September and read a proclamation that Long Island was now under British rule. Stillwell promptly arrested Chrystie and quartered him in his house for safe keeping. In the rapidly ensuing events, Chrystie was transferred to Fort Amsterdam for safety from the residents of Gravesend, and Stillwell was forced to flee for his safety from the English. The Dutch colonies passed into the hands of the English without incident 29 August 1664. Two months later, Lt. Nicholas sold his plantation on Long Island and moved to Staten Island.

Among his progeny were numerous military officers. Four of his sons, Richard, Nicholas, Thomas, and Jeremiah were captains in the Long Island militia. In the line of his son, Capt. Nicholas Stillwell, Col. Richard Stillwell and Maj. Thomas Stillwell were officers in the third generation; Lt. Daniel Stillwell, Col. Nicholas Stillwell, and Capt. Richard Stillwell were officers in the fourth generation; Capt. Richard Stillwell, Capt. Daniel Stillwell, and Maj. Richard Stillwell, were officers in the fifth generation; with Col. Richard Stillwell, Col. George W. Stillwell, and Lt. Com. James Stillwell, in the sixth, seventh, and eighth generations, respectively.

In the line of Lt. Nicholas Stillwell's son, Capt. Richard Stillwell, Capt. John Stillwell was an officer in the third generation; Gen. Jarrat Stillwell was in the fifth generation, and Maj. John Stillwell was in the sixth generation. Capt. Richard Stillwell's progeny also included men of the medical profession among whom were Dr. Richard Stillwell in the fourth generation; Dr. Gershom Stillwell in the fifth generation; Dr. William Stillwell in the sixth generation; Dr. William Edgar Stillwell and Dr. John Edwin Stillwell in the seventh generation; and Dr. John E. Stillwell in the eighth generation.

An interesting house known as the Billiou-Stillwell-Perine house now stands at 1476 Richmond Road. Thomas Stillwell, son of Lt. Nicholas Stillwell, married Martha Billiou and settled on Staten Island. It is believed that he built the Stillwell portion of the house between 1677, the date of the survey, and 1680. The Stillwell section of the house has strong English features and the Billiou section has strong French style architecture. Additions were made to the house during the period 1760-1790 and in 1830. The Perine family occupied the house from about 1760 to 1915. The house was conveyed to the Staten Island Antiquarian Society and in 1922 they merged with the Staten Island Historical Society. See p. 96.

Mary, m. William Stillwell

26 William Stillwell, bap. 11 May 1678

William Stillwell settled in Gravesend on Long Island probably in 1680. He transferred a tract of land on Staten Island 15 December 1680 to Obadiah Holmes in exchange for plantation no. 8 in Gravesend. In 1687 he and his brother, Thomas Stillwell, had a grant of land on Staten Island, although he continued to live in Gravesend. About 1690 he moved to Cape May County, New Jersey, to assist in the development of the area.

William probably had other children. John Stillwell, Esq., of Cape May, was probably his son.[5]

31 Martha Stillwell, m. Benjamin Brittain

Capt. Thomas Stillwell settled in Richmond County on Staten Island. He served in responsible positions in the county as he was appointed constable, sheriff, and captain of the militia. He was elected as a representative from Richmond County to serve in the Colonial Assembly.

Thomas received a patent for 73 acres of land 28 October 1677 on the southeast side of Staten Island. Although he obtained other land, this was his home. He built a comfortable stone house during the 1680's which was, during the 1930's, the home of the Staten Island Antiquarian Society.

Both Capt. Thomas Stillwell and his wife died testate. In his will, dated 21 May 1704 and proved 9 May 1705, he named as his children, Thomas, deceased, Frances, Ann and Rachel.[6] In the will of Martha (Billew) Stillwell de Bonrepos, she named Martha as a daughter in addition to Frances, Ann, and Rachel.[7]

8 (1) Daniel Stillwell (Lt. Nicholas[1]), bap. 13 November 1653, New Amsterdam, New Netherland; d. after 1719 probably Middlesex County, New Jersey.

Maria, m. Daniel Stillwell.

32 Daniel Stillwell, bap. 17 Oct. 1680

Daniel Stillwell moved to Staten Island after his marriage. He served in offices of honor and responsibility, namely constable and overseer of Staten Island. He was referred to as a gentleman during the 1680's.

It is supposed that Daniel Stillwell may have had other sons named John, Nathaniel, Jeremiah, Samuel, Denis, and William Stillwell.[8]

\+ 39 Nathaniel Webb, b. 10 Feb. 1696; d. 19 Sept. 1750
\+ 40 Zebulon Webb

Samuel Webb was married in Braintree, Massachusetts, and continued to live in Braintree until 1707. He then moved his family to Windham, Connecticut, and purchased the "fifth home lot." In addition, he purchased other lots in the amount of 317 acres of land. The area is known today as Windham Centre.

Samuel Webb died testate. In his will, dated 7 January 1731 and proved 6 March 1739, he devised all his movable property and the end of the house next to the street to his wife, Mary. All of his land previously given by deed of gift to his sons Samuel, Nathaniel, and Zebulon, and to his son-in-law, Amos Dodge, was assurred to them and their heirs forever.[6]

The birth and death of his daughter, Rebecca, were recorded in the town records of Braintree, and all of his children were born in Braintree.

Generations of James Whaley

The research of Levi Kelsey Cramb on the Whaley family was published in a booklet entitled Whaleys of Loudoun County, Virginia in 1947. He substantiated his work by the inclusion of primary source records and traced descendants of James Whaley who migrated to Bourbon and Fayette counties, Kentucky. See p. 536.

1 James Whaley, b. about 1700; d. in 1750 before 4 June, Richmond County, Virginia.
Elizabeth, m. James Whaley, about 1727.

+ 2 James Whaley, b. 19 July 1728; d. 1784
+ 3 Thomas Whaley
+ 4 William Whaley, d. 1790

James Whaley died testate in Richmond County, formerly Old Rappahannock, Virginia. In his will, dated 4 January 1749 and proved 4 June 1750, he named his wife, Elizabeth, and his sons, James, Thomas, and William.[1]

2 (1) James Whaley, Jr., (James[1]), b. 19 July 1728, New Kent County, Virginia; d. in 1784 between 8 July and 9 August, Loudoun County, Virginia.
Lydia Ann Remy, dau. of Jacob and Sarah Remy, b. about 1735 in Virginia, probably Westmoreland County; m. James Whaley, Jr., about 1750.

5 Elizabeth Whaley, b. 1751; d. 1823; m. William Bernard Sears
+ 6 John Whaley, d. 1810
7 Jane Whaley, m. _____ Ellis
8 Barbara Whaley, m. Henry Talbot
9 William Whaley
10 Mary Whaley, m. Benjamin Talbot

Barbara Remy, dau. of Jacob and Sarah Remy, b. about 1736 in Virginia; d. 12 December 1826, Bourbon County, Kentucky.

+ 11 Jacob (Gibson) Whaley
+ 12 Benjamin Talbot Whaley, b. 1760; d. 1835
+ 13 James Whaley
14 Elizabeth Whaley
15 Rebecca Whaley, m. Dr. Enoch Hayden
16 Henry Whaley
+ 17 Elijah Whaley

Ann Talbot, widow of James Carter, m. James Whaley, Jr., about 1770, Loudoun County, Virginia.

18 George Whaley

James Whaley died testate. In his will, dated 8 July 1784 and proved 9 August 1784, he identified himself as James Whaley of Cameron Parish, Loudoun County, Virginia. He named his wife Ann, and their son, George; each of his children by his first wife, Lydia Ann Remy; and each of his children by Barbara Remy.[2]

2. Loudoun Co. Wills, Book C, pp. 87-90, Courthouse, Leesburg, VA.

3 (1) Thomas Whaley (James[1]), b. in Virginia.

Thomas Whaley may have been the grandfather of Thomas Whaley who died in 1791. The latter Thomas Whaley married Margaret Pugh and they were the parents of Elizabeth Whaley, born in 1787, who married Joseph Mauch.

4 (1) William Whaley (James[1]), b. about 1732, Loudoun County, Virginia; d. about 1790, Fairfax County, Virginia.
Lena Mason, m. William Whaley.

19 William Whaley

Barbara Remy, dau. of Jacob and Sarah Remy, b. about 1737; d. in 1827, Bourbon County, Kentucky; m. William Whaley, Sr., about 1770.

20 Sarah Whaley, m. Gage Cleveland
21 Kate Whaley, m. John Johnson
22 Jemima Whaley, b. 1776; m. 1796, Archelaus van Hook
+ 23 Leland Whaley, b. 8 Apr. 1782

William Whaley was cited as William Whaley, Sr., in a deposition dated 12 April 1782 in which Sanford Remy referred to his niece as Barbara Whaley the now wife of William Whaley, Sr.

A descendant, C. W. van Hook, of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, has done considerable research on this family.

6 (2) John Whaley (James,[2] James[1]), b. about 1753 in Virginia; d. in 1810, Mason County, Kentucky,

24 James Whaley
25 John Whaley
26 Nancy Ann Whaley, d. 17 Feb. 1840; m. 1802, James B. Nichols
27 Mary Whaley, m. 23 May 1803, Mark Wallingford
28 Jane Whaley, b. 12 June 1791; d. 8 Aug. 1873; m. Rezin Talbot
+ 29 Benjamin Whaley
30 Daniel Whaley
31 William Baker Whaley
32 Sarah Whaley, m. 17 Aug. 1810, James B. Nichols

John Whaley died testate in Mason County, Kentucky. As he made no mention of his wife in his will, it is assumed that she preceded him in death.

John Whaley served as a private in the Continental line during the Revolutionary War. A warrant was issued for his service 7 September 1797 to George Truehart, Atty., and was assigned to Robert Campbell by Nancy Whaley.

11 (2) Jacob Whaley (James,[2] James[1]), b. about 1757, Loudoun County, Virginia; d. in Bath County, Kentucky.

33 Sallie Whaley, m. _____ West
34 Julia Whaley, m. _____ North
35 Harriett Whaley, m. _____ Stout
+ 36 Charles Whaley

Jacob Whaley, alias Gibson Whaley, was probably the eldest son of James Whaley and Barbara Remy. Jacob Whaley was named in his father's will as my son Jacob Remy commonly called Gibson Whaley.

12 (2) Benjamin Talbot Whaley (James,[2] James[1]), b. in 1760 in Virginia, probably Loudoun County; d. in 1835, Bourbon County, Kentucky.
Jane Vance, m. Benjamin Talbot Whaley.

+ 37 James Whaley, b. 1789; d. 1869
38 Washington Whaley

Benjamin Talbot Whaley received a pension for service rendered as a private, a sergeant, and a captain in the Virginia line, and for an expedition under George Rogers Clark. His children, mentioned in his pension application, were James Whaley, Washington Whaley, and a daughter who married William Moreland.

13 (2) James Whaley (James,[2] James[1]), b. about 1762 in Virginia; d. about 1810, Bourbon County, Kentucky.
Eleanor Brown, d. about 1849, Marion County, Missouri; m. James Whaley.

39 Anne Whaley, b. 29 Sept. 1782; d. 17 Sept. 1861; m. Daniel Talbot
40 Harriett Whaley, m. 16 May 1809, William Knight
41 Elizabeth Whaley, b. 16 Feb. 1800; d. 1875; m. George Northcutt, Jr.
42 Delilia Lane Whaley, m. Elijah Colonel Hayden
43 Barbara Whaley, m. _____ Lake

James Whaley left Loudoun County, Virginia, about 1785, and moved to Bourbon County, Kentucky. At the same period of time, an older James Whaley was living in Fayette County, Kentucky, and the former James was sometimes designated as James Whaley, Jr., to distinguish himself from the older man.

James Whaley died intestate about 1810. The administrator of the estate gave Eleanor, the widow, her dower, and divided the remainder of the estate among the five daughters of James Whaley: Anne, Harriet, Elizabeth, Delilia, and Barbara.[3]

Generations of John Zimmerman

Mark Ethelbert Zimmerman, Kansas state archaeologist of White Cloud, Kansas, was nationally known for his discoveries of Indian artifacts. He and his assistant, Edward E. Park, held the theory that they had discovered the home-site of the last of the survivors of the "lost Welsh expedition" who came to America more than three hundred years before Columbus. The theory was based on the finding of Indian artifacts in the White Cloud vicinity of Doniphan County, Kansas, which showed traces of Welsh culture and were dissimilar to any such artifacts found in other Indian tribes. Zimmerman contended the artifacts showed a knowledge of science not possessed by the Indians until after the advent of the white man on this continent.

Zimmerman also surveyed Rice County in hopes of locating the "seven lost cities of Cibola" and the land of Quivira. Through the artifacts he found he was able to connect the Welshmen with this fantastic empire which the Spanish conqueror, Coronado, spent several years in seeking. (The White Cloud Globe-Tribune, 11 May 1933, White Cloud, Kansas.) Coronado was guided by a plains Indian called the "Turk" for about forty days in the spring of 1541. Failing to find the wealth of Quivira, the "Turk" was killed by Coronado near Great Bend, Kansas. See p. 806.
